STRENGTH TEST ON NEUTRALITY FACING DELAY

Downey Oratory on War Trade Boom 'Consequences' Perils Preliminary Vote.

ISOLATIONISTS PROTEST

Seek to Halt Balloting on Plan to Split Bill, See 'Back Home' Reaction.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Discussion of economic phases of the neutrality issue threatened today to upset plans for a preliminary vote on the administration bill.

Sen. Sheridan Downey, D., Cal., who told the senate Friday that embargo repeal would bring a $5,000,000,000 war trade boom of "catastrophic consequences," held the floor and planned to talk for another three hours.

Sen. John W. Tobey, R., N. H., appeared helpless in his efforts to obtain immediate action on his motion to split the neutrality bill to permit immediate consideration of its title-and-carry provisions, leaving the controverted arms embargo repeal to subsequent discussion.

Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, D., Ky., who last week entered into a "gentleman's agreement" with Tobey to obtain a vote on his motion, said "We can't do anything as long as Senator Downey has the floor."

The leader said that he would confer with Tobey to seek an opening for consideration of the motion. Tobey insisted that he would seek action "at the earliest possible moment."

Isolationists Oppose.

Some isolationist leaders were reported anxious to avoid a vote on the motion now, lest it be interpreted "back home" as a test of their strength on the proposed embargo repeal. Administration leaders were confident of defeating it and some isolationists, it was understood, were trying to persuade Tobey to withdraw his motion.

If the motion is voted on and defeated, or if Tobey withdraws it, the senate will begin its second week of debate on the bill. Senators Robert F. Wagner, D., N. Y., and Josiah W. Bailey, D., N. C., were scheduled to speak for the administration. Senators Downey and Bennet C. Clark, D., Mo., are isolationist speakers.

CHAMBERLAIN SAYS ALLIES STAND INTACT

London, Paris in 'Complete Accord' on Purposes for War, Premier Declares.

ASSAIL HITLER'S 'PEACE'

British Press Urges Policy Barring Peace 'At the Price of Poland.'

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Prime Minister Chamberlain told the house of commons today that Britain and France were "in complete accord" as to the purposes of their participation in the European war, which they frequently expressed, and that any more specific statement of their war aims would be evolved through consultation of the two powers.

Chamberlain's statement was in reply to a question by Laborite Arthur Henderson who asked "whether it is the policy of his majesty's government to publish in due course of time and jointly with the French government a specific statement of war aims based on principles already enunciated."

His Majesty's government and the French government are in complete accord as to the purposes for which they entered the war," Chamberlain replied.

(The British government has said repeatedly that the principal aims of the war are to "crush Hitlerism" and "to free Europe from menace of aggression." The restoration of Poland and Czechoslovakia also has been mentioned.)

While the nation waited for the cabinet to frame a formal reply to Adolf Hitler's peace gestures, Britain kept her war preparations geared to a high pitch.

The British press continued to assail Hitler's proposals as "nebulous" and urge a policy barring peace "at the price of Poland."

Widely-separated spheres of thought emphasized reported United States reaction as a strong argument against embracing the Fuehrer's "peace overtures."

The liberal Manchester Guardian declared editorially, "a false step now giving the impression we are either weak or insincere in

Soviet Declares Continuation of War Unjustified

Moscow Throws Weight Behind Hitler Stand, Acts To Speed Up Trade With Germany; Blasts At 'Exterminate Hitler' Aims of Britain, France.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—Soviet Russia threw her weight behind Adolf Hitler's peace gestures today in an editorial in the government newspaper Izvestia, accusing Great Britain and France of "returning to the middle ages" for waging war to "exterminate Hitlerism."

At the same time, it was announced Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslaff Molotoff reached a quick decision last night with leaders of a German trade delegation, arrived only yesterday to expedite stimulated trade between Russia and Germany under their recent agreement.

Besides the German delegation, Russia was host to the foreign ministers of Turkey and Lithuania and expected a third diplomat, Former Premier Juhu Kusti Paasiviki of Finland, tonight or tomorrow as she pushed forward her bargain-driving campaign on Russian frontiers from the Gulf of Finland to the Black sea.

Izvestia said the rapid "disintegration" of Poland was 'irrefutable proof that its lack of vital power removes the causes for continuation of the war in western Europe."

It continued:

"Even the blind can now see that the Polish state cannot be restored. . . . Still the war by Great Britain and France against Germany is being waged under the slogan of restoration of Poland.

"Therefore, continuation of the war cannot be justified. . . . Termination of this war would meet the interests of the peoples of all countries."

Reds Broaden Strength.

Diplomatic observers said Russia apparently was striving to strengthen her position in all possible directions while Europe's other major powers were occupied with war.

Interest centered on the impending Finnish negotiations. Like Estonia and Latvia, which already have granted Russia important concessions in non-aggression agreements, Finland is dwarfed by her huge neighbor.

But the Finns were expected in diplomatic quarters to put up more of an argument than their neighbors in northern Europe.

Belief was expressed here that Russia might seek the unfortified islands of Lavansaari and Seiskar, which control the approaches to Leningrad through the Gulf of Finland.

If, however, Russia should ask control of the Aaland islands, it was believed Sweden would back Finnish objections and solicit German support. The islands, lying

RAIN TO ROUT HEAT TUESDAY

Relief Promised After One of Hottest October Days Here on Record.

The October heat wave which sent the mercury up to summer levels over the week-end and brought severe wind and electrical storms to sections of Huron county last evening, will be routed by general showers Tuesday, the Ohio weather bureau said today.

A reading of 87 degrees was recorded in Mansfield Sunday, making it one of the warmest October days on record. The 24-hour average of 75 degrees was 21 degrees above normal.

The weatherman said the air stagnation which caused the heat wave was breaking up today and showers and cooler weather will move in from the west by Tuesday afternoon.

Willard and sections of Huron county received temporary relief from the heat late yesterday when a "baby tornado" and a heavy rain and electrical storm swept through a narrow strip north of the city.

Farm buildings were damaged and trees were uprooted by the storm which struck about 5:45 p. m. The wind damage was centered in the Egypt road community north of the city. Willard received a heavy rain.

Mrs. Walter Beebe received bruises and lacerations when the shed in which she sought shelter with her one-year-old child was rolled over three times by the wind. The baby was unhurt.

Most Ohio cities reported higher temperatures yesterday than Florida and California. It was 92 in Cincinnati, 91 in Columbus and 88 in Cleveland.

DIES IN BLAST

Boy, 16, Burned Fatally When Gasoline Stove Explodes.

LIMA —(INS)— Burns suffered when a gasoline stove he was repairing exploded today caused the death of Robert Lapoint, 16, a farmer's son. The resulting fire destroyed the home of the victim's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lapoint, near Lima.

The boy was lying under the stove when the blast occurred. The father dragged him from the kitchen and attempted to beat out the flames with his hands.

The report added that the "sign suffered greatly from French bullets."

Roosevelt Remaining Silent on Peace Bid

Returns To White House, Still Refuses To Commit Self On Nazi Hints That Hitler Wants Him As Mediator.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt returned to the White House today still ignoring semi-official German suggestions that he initiate a move for peace in the European war.

Mr. Roosevelt, who received the latest war reports by telephone during his week-end at Hyde Park, refused to commit himself on suggestions that he take the role of peace-maker in Europe and indicated that he was not ready to respond to Nazi intimations that Adolf Hitler would be willing to accept his mediation.

It appeared likely that the United States would stick to its policy of non-recognition of conquests by aggression, and view as international lawlessness the German-Russian seizure of Poland—believed to be a principal point on which Hitler would demand acquiescence before talking peace.

Mr. Roosevelt also kept in touch with the navy department and coast guard for late reports from naval vessels and the coast guard cutter accompanying the American refugee ship, Iroquois, to New York harbor. The vessel, which Grand Admiral Erich Raeder of the German fleet warned would be sunk when it enters American waters, sailed from Cobh, Ireland, on Oct. 2, with 584 passengers and a crew of 212 aboard. It is due in New York Wednesday.

The protective patrol boats were ordered to proceed to the Iroquois assistance when Raeder informed the American naval attache in Berlin that he had reason to believe that the vessel would meet the same fate as the British liner Athenia, which was torpedoed and sunk off the Hebrides with a loss of more than 100 lives, including 28 Americans.

GET $2,000 LOOT

Gunmen Rob Loan Company at Dayton; Four Menaced.

DAYTON — (U.P.) — Three clean-shaven men held up the Lincoln Federal Savings & Loan company here today and escaped in an automobile with an estimated loot of $2,000.

W. L. Scharrer, secretary-treasurer of the company, was talking business with Russell Ullmer when the robbers entered. One of them announced, "this is a holdup," vaulted the counter and threatened Scharrer with his gun.

Scharrer, Ullmer and Mrs. Eva Manser, an employe, were forced into a wash room. J. H. Finger, a customer, came in a moment or so later and was put with the others.

The robbers took the money from a cash drawer, ignoring an open safe.

KILLS SELF AND 67 NAZIS, CLAIM

Paris Report Says Czech Aviator Led Germans To Death.

PARIS —(U.P.)— The Paris Soir reported from Zurich today that a Czechoslovakian aviator killed himself and 67 Germans by exploding a mine at an airdrome near Prague.

The aviator had been questioned by the Gestapo (German secret police) about reports that the airdrome was mined, the newspaper said.

He led a large group of police and German aviators into a hanger. Before they could stop him, he set off the mine, killing the entire party, it was said.

U. S. SIGHTS SUB

White House Says Non-American Craft Seen Off Florida.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The White House said today that navy patrols had observed a non-American submarine yesterday about 20 miles west of Key West, Fla.

Stephen Early, a presidential secretary, said it possibly was the same boat which was reported Saturday 15 miles off Miami, Fla.

The submarine, Early added, was comparatively small. Also seen in the same vicinity, he said, were two non-American tankers.

He declined to say, however, whether the submarine and the tankers were of the same nationality.

PARIS: French Hear "Truce" Rumors, Strengthen Defenses

BULLETIN

PARIS—(U.P.)—Premier Edouard Daladier will answer Fuehrer Adolf Hitler's reichstag peace proposal speech of last Friday in a radio address Tuesday night, it was announced today.

(By International News Service)

PARIS—While every shred of evidence and every concrete development pointed toward merciless prosecution of hostilities by Great Britain and France, persistent rumors circulated in Paris today that some sort of armistice or temporary truce is in the making.

The rumors are passed along simply because they were heard on all sides.

Diplomatic activity on a tremendous scale is under way. Of that there is no question. But reports of its progress and direction are so nebulous and contradictory that it is difficult to detect the main currents.

As warfare was intensified on the Saar front, chief interest in Paris centered on the drive against the Communist party. Sixteen former Communist members of the chamber of deputies already have been indicted.

These developments seemed to spell, as far as the French are concerned, the doom of the German bid for an armistice to permit the warring nations to talk matters over.

French authorities took the view that Hitler's speech last Friday has failed to bring forth an intermediary through whom such a breathing spell could be arranged.

Nevertheless, there was no one so bold as to state flatly that all possibilities of peace have gone adrift.

BERLIN: Nazis Plan To Remove Baltic Germans To Reich

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—In line with one of Adolf Hitler's declarations in his reichstag speech of last Friday, Germany today worked on plans for negotiation with the smaller Baltic states for immediate transfer of German-blood residents to some section of the reich.

The chief difficulty appeared to be the question of how to recompense these Germans for property, especially real estate, that they would leave behind and how to effect the transfer of their capital assets without embarrassing the economy and finance of the Baltic states on the one hand and Germany on the other.

Work on this problem went on as authorized sources said they had nothing new to add to the question of peace or war. They said that Hitler had made his statement and that now it was up to neutrals and the belligerents on the other side to make the next move.

Many of Germany's millions believed peace was just around the corner.

Reich officials estimated there were 6,000 Germans in Latvia, 15,000 to 20,000 in Estonia and 40,000 in Lithuania, the countries under immediate consideration for repatriation negotiations.

Latvia, it was understood, estimated the value of possessions in German hands there at 1,500,000,000 reichsmarks (about $600,000,000).

The question of transferring Germans in Soviet Russia would be taken up considerably later, it was intimated.

Teachers Take Role of Both Mothers, Instructors as Britain Goes to War

Englishwoman Who Once Taught Here Writes of Evacuations.

An Englishwoman who taught school in Mansfield for one year is one of the teachers in England who now spend their time looking after the physical as well as educational needs of their small charges, according to a letter to friends from Miss Florence Davey, Chertsey, England.

Miss Davey taught at John Simpson Junior High in 1935 when she and Miss Elizabeth Woltmann, now Mrs. Albert Strickler, participated in a teacher-exchange plan, worked out between Mansfield schools and those of Chertsey.

Miss Davey wrote that she has been assisting in the evacuation of women and children to the safer country districts. Her letter gives an idea of what it is like to live in a country when war hangs over it.

The letter, written late in September, tells of the evacuation of children in London.

"We were all at the school in Chertsey the first four days of September, as this school was one of the distributing centers," she wrote. "We met the trains as they came in, helped with the luggage, and gave food and drinks to the children before they were put aboard trains for their new billets.

"There were trainloads of mothers and babies and expectant mothers. I had a squad of our girls . . . on the station platform giving drinks of water around. It was such hot weather then, they were thankful for

FINLAND BOWS

Sends Envoy to Moscow, But Calls Up Reserves.

HELSINGFORS—(INS)—Finland yielded today to Soviet pressure for "political and economic" negotiations, but at the same time called her army reserves to duty as a warning to Moscow to move with caution.

The Finnish cabinet accepted the Soviet "invitation" to the Moscow negotiations and appointed Juho K. Passikivi, former premier and present minister to Sweden, as emissary.

The cabinet acted, however, only after a delay of 48 hours, during which the call went out for army reserves. This was interpreted as a warning that Finland will not give the USSR naval and air bases and other concessions as readily as Latvia and Estonia.

France Adds "Baby" Premiums

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

It seems strange that any normal married couple on friendly terms with the stork should have to be given a premium for the supreme joy of having a baby.

The blessing of watching one of these little miracles of delight grow into consciousness of its powers to love, please, boss and otherwise behave as a miniature human being, would seem to pay for itself. Babies are blessings, and blessed is the family that has one or more of these divine "nuisances" even as they may at times prove to be.

Yet, babies have become so scarce in France that a legal code has been completed on behalf of the government to encourage larger families, and it has been submitted to the cabinet for approval.

This legislation is designed to counteract the large population increases in Germany and Italy, which are weighting the balance of man power. The following main provisions are: "A cash premium for the first child; all families regardless of class eligible; smaller premiums, the amounts of which have not yet been determined, for each succeeding birth."

Another provision of the code which will bring joy and comfort to spinsters and widows is a tax on bachelors. The law has no patience with single blessedness on the part of the boulevardier, the clubman, or even the farmer and clerk, who enjoys doing his own cooking.

The tax on childless couples seems to the outsider less "amiable" for in their case the stork may be just inhospitable, and to tax them along with bachelors to help finance "the baby program" may be a case of adding insult to injury.

But listen to this. When Gilbert Chesterton announced another of the provisions at the time women were fighting for suffrage, it was taken to be one of his jokes. Now it appears about to be a legal formality. It's known as the "family vote." By this system a father would have a vote for each of his children in addition to his own.

Still another provision is stricter punishment for illegal operations along with tightened restrictions on white slavery and heavier punishments for traffic in narcotics and new restrictions to discourage alcoholism, all of which tend to restrict the birth rate.

It is estimated that the "stork program" will cost $19,860,000. The tax on bachelors and childless couples alone is expected to produce $5,296,000.

A major difference of opinion among the cabinet ministers centered on the "family vote," in which a man was to be given as many votes as he had children. The question of the adoption of children was not discussed by the cabinet.

As a writer of a column on domestic affairs, I have often wondered when I have received letters from childless couples, telling me how boresome their marriages have become, why they don't adopt a baby.

If both husband and wife love children, there is nothing boresome about a household in which one of these prize packages is growing up. And then the miracle so often happens; childless couples who have given up all thought of having a baby of their own often have one after they've adopted a baby.

A house plant from the salad bowl

Did it ever occur to you that you might grow a house plant from the salad bowl? Perhaps not literally from the bowl but rather from the seed of one of the good things that often goes into a salad bowl. In this case it is the growing of a house tree from the large seed of an avocado pear.

Frequently, however, when attempting to grow an avocado pear tree from the seed the result is decay or rotting of the seed. This is not apt to happen, if care is taken to see that only the bottom of the seed comes in contact with the water.

An old fashioned hyacinth or bulb glass, as shown in the Garden-Graph, is ideal for starting the avocado seed. If you do not have this or cannot obtain one, an ordinary water tumbler can be used. In such case it will be necessary to stick toothpicks radially in the broad base of the seed to support it above the glass.

Make sure that only enough water is put into the glass to reach up to the bottom of the seed. In a few weeks roots and leaf growth will start. Gradually add soil to the water and after the roots are well-started transfer the plant to a flower pot.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, Oct. 10.

A rather routine day is read from the predominant planetary directions. There may be fairly agreeable and advantageous dealings with employers, superiors and those in authority, but there are omens of trivial disappointments, friction and probable irksome delays. Benefits may accrue from tact, finesse and shrewdness, or through intrigues or secret agreements.

Those whose birthday it is may experience a rather dull or routine year unless some sort of thrill is found in intrigues, collusion or secret alliances, especially with superiors, employers or others holding influential place. Otherwise, there are hints of small delays and disappointments, or other trivial and irksome anxieties.

A child born on this day, while rather serious and thoughtful, may be subtle, crafty, elusive and disposed to gain its ends by undercover means. However, it should gain the confidence and approbation of its employers and those above it in station.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

A sudden recollection made me start from my chair and rush to the telephone, almost upsetting Harry Underwood, who was bending over one of the suitcases containing implements used in his make-ups.

"Hey!" he ejaculated, startled, "where's the raid? Shall I get on my gas mask?"

"Sorry," I said breathlessly, "but I have just remembered that Dicky hasn't the faintest idea where I am, if he should need me and want to telephone me."

Lillian deftly reached out and caught my arm just as I was about to lift the telephone.

"Hold on a second!" she adjured me.

"Don't stop me." I said frantically. "How could I ever have forgotten to let Dicky know just where I was?"

"I don't suppose you've had anything on your mind and heart for the last 24 hours or so, have you?" she said. "But I have an amendment to put to this resolution. Let me telephone the Dicky-bird."

"Of course," I said. "It doesn't matter who talks to him just so he knows where I am."

"It matters a good deal, and you know it," she retorted, "but there are reasons—I'll explain 'em to you later—why I want to do the telephoning just now."

She took down the telephone and gave the number of Dicky's studio. Then I listened tensely to a one-sided conversation with someone who was not Dicky.

"He isn't there," she said. "They don't know when to expect him."

A sudden intuition seized me.

"How long since he's been there?" I asked

There wasn't the slightest hesitation in her reply, but I sensed something hidden.

"I didn't ask that," she said. "He's always around there part of the day, you know."

"I'll call the magazine," she said, but I stopped her.

"Let me call the Lansfield first," I said, and after a swift look at my determined face she stepped back from the telephone. I seized it and called the hotel number, receiving a prompt answer.

"This is Mrs. Graham." I said. "Have there been any messages for me since I left?"

"Not until today, Mrs. Graham," the operator replied. "Mr. Graham called three times today, but said you were not to call him, that he would call again."

"Just a second," I said. Putting my hand over the mouthpiece. I whispered to Lillian.

"Is it permissable to give this number?" I said.

"In this case, yes," she whispered back, and I took my hand from the mouthpiece.

"If Mr. Graham calls again, will you tell him that he can reach me at this number"—I gave it—"before six and after 10 o'clock tonight?"

"I'll call the magazine now," Lillian said, and this time I felt that all my breath was suspended until she hung up the telephone again.

"He hasn't been there today," she said in matter-of-fact tones that slightly eased my tension.

"Who answered you?" I asked.

"The office boy, I imagine, and he acted as though he had the place pretty much to himself. Well! you've covered every angle you can. When we get back tonight, we'll call him again. And now suppose you come over here and see what you're going to wear tonight."

With an effort I wrenched my mind back and from frantic speculation over Dicky's whereabouts to consideration of the night's masquerading adventure. And I was startled when Lillian held up an attractive, fairly-modish silk gown, but one which bore the stamp "old lady" on it as plainly as if it had been printed on its shop label.

"Don't flinch," she said, laughing. "We're going to put 20 or more years on you."

She turned to her husband.

"Do you want us to dress first or do you want to make us up before we dress?"

"Dress by all means," he said. "But leave your hair loose, and Heaven help you if I detect a bit of cosmetics on your freshly-washed faces."

Exercise Helps to Beautify Legs

By MME. QUI VIVE)

Do you care enough for good looks to get yourself in a sweat now and then? Sweat isn't a pretty word, but it is precisely what teacher is talking about. Unless exercise is strenuous it doesn't strengthen muscles and if it is strenuous it will bring moisture to the surface of the skin. A good old sweat is beneficial to the human hide.

In every pore of the body is a washing machine. Nature put it there for a purpose. It has a good deal to do with body temperature and it cleans away pore debris as will nothing else. The skin is an important organ of elimination, exercise helps it to function. We trust that these words will catch the eye of the lady who eats too much and works too little, inviting the meal bag figure, also the casual girl who goes through her calesthenics with no more energy than she uses to lift an eyebrow or tilt an impertinent nose.

Exercise creates vitality and vitality gives a woman a certain sparkle. The girl who can't clip off a few miles without agonizing is a sissy, doesn't belong to this period when women are up and doing. Women need exercise as much as men. The man who has to confess that he does nothing at all to keep his muscles strong and healthy is considered a disgrace to his sex.

It is to the credit of the younger generation that girls are keen on outdoor sports. They play baseball with the boys, they swim, are interested in basketball, archery, all outdoor diversions. The result is that girls are taller and stronger than their mothers were when they were of high school age. In the future there will be less wailing about hip spread, bulky arms and legs, tummies that take on the outlines of rotundas. Having established an interest in sports and athletics girls will be inclined to continue them into middle age.

We can't say as much of the mamas. Some enjoy the outdoors but the majority prefer to sit in at a bridge game with a box of candy at their elbows. They complain bitterly about losing the pristine silhouette, but what can they expect? A beautiful figure is worth working for. If muscles have nothing to do they soften, deteriorate, lose resiliency.

Many women sidestep outdoor life because their pedals can't stand the strain. Hurty feet kill zest for physical activities. Only a small minority of civilized women have normal hoofs, most of them being afflicted with corns, ingrowing nails, and calloused spots. Many feet are deformed because of being packed into shoes that are not suitable. So, if you are among the sufferers and are denying yourself the pleasure of Mister Al Fresco's company, seek the advice and services of a foot specialist. Then you can line up with the fresh air fiends and have fun. You will look better, be in high spirits, feel tip-topping.

In a rubber game South bid 1-Spade to start this deal. North then bid 2-Hearts, South 3-Clubs, North 3-No Trumps, South 4-Spades and North 5-Clubs.

West led the unbid diamond suit to the A. Came then the heart A, spade A, spade 2 ruffed with the club 3, heart K for a diamond discard, the heart 5 ruffed with the club 5, spade 3 ruffed with the club 4, then the club 6 taken by East's A. The latter returned the heart Q, ruffed with the club J, the spade 5 was trumped by the club 10, the diamond K cashed, the heart 10 ruffed with the club K and the last trick given up, making the contract.

Sound defense would have dictated a club lead to the A and the return of the club 7, which would have spoiled the declarer's timing and made his contract impossible. East could even have beaten the hand by returning the club 7 when he won the ninth trick with the club A, but he didn't do it.

Sauces For Pet Desserts

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

From chili sauce comes not only a familiar appetizing relish, but all manner of piquant possibilities. The good cook is always experimenting, finding new and better ways to use various ingredients. For salad: Combine chili sauce with cottage cheese and grated onion. For sauce: Heat chili sauce and pour it hot over corned beef hash or meat loaf. For canapes: Beat together chili sauce and cream cheese and a little onion juice. For eggs: Chili sauce in your stuffed egg filling (chopped ripe olives too) lends it plenty of piquancy. For dressings: Vary French dressing with chili sauce. Good with crabmeat and tuna.

Mint, Cool and Tasty.

We take a big jump now from the spicy chili to the cool, calm mint. A new recipe has just been minted in time for the shank end of summer. It's a two-fruit ice with a mint-bed tang. It is made with one cup sugar, one-half cup light corn syrup, one cup water, one-half cup fresh mint leaves or mint essence, one cup unsweetened pineapple juice, one-half cup orange juice and one egg white. Cook together sugar, syrup and water to 240° F. or until it forms a softball when tried in cold water. Remove from stove, add crushed mint leaves. If mint essence is used instead of mint leaves, add next with fruit juices and pour into medium-size tray of automatic refrigerator. Freeze for 30 minutes and remove from refrigerator. Beat well and add one stiffly beaten egg white. Return to refrigerator and freeze (setting control at coldest point) until firm, stirring well every half hour. Approximately four hours freezing time. Makes six servings.

For a real treat, try a delicious version of Baked Alaska—Brazilian Baked Alaska. It is a beauty of ice cream, cake and meringue that looks so pretty, tastes so good. It is made with one pint of ice cream, one sponge cake, three-fourths cup sliced Brazil nuts, three egg whites, salt, three tablespoons sugar, one teaspoon vanilla. Remove center from top of cake, leaving a shell at least three-quarters of an inch in thickness. Fill with ice cream and sprinkle half a cup of sliced nuts over the ice cream. Cover with a meringue made by beating egg nuts over top. Bake in a hot oven and vanilla. Sprinkle remaining whites stiff and adding salt, sugar (450° F.) until light brown, which should not take longer than five minutes. Serve at once.

Mansfield Lady Felt That Stomach Burned With Gas. Vendol Brings Relief!

Says heart pounded from gas pressure, had awful shortness of breath, acid risings irritated throat, felt as though lump were chocking her. Declares Vendol relieved constipation, then all uneasiness passed off.

MRS. RALPH REYNOLDS

Mrs. Ralph Reynolds of 19 Prospect St., Mansfield, is now adding her name to the long list of widely known local people who are publicly endorsing and praising Vendol, the celebrated formula of Roots and Herbs with Alkalines that is doing so much good all over this vicinity. Mrs. Reynolds has a host of friends not only in this city, but also in many surrounding towns. So, what she says about Vendol will be read with great interest. She says:

"For the past several years I had been a victim of constipation which caused untold misery and agony from a sour, gassy, burning stomach condition. After each meal my stomach burned like fire. I'd rift up a sour liquid that burned all the way up to my throat. My heart pounded from the gas pressure, my breathing was short, and felt as though there were a lump in my throat I couldn't swallow.

"Sometimes I'd feel dizzy, with spots dancing before my eyes, tongue was coated, and I had a bad taste in my mouth.

"That is the condition I was in when I began taking Vendol and the little Vendol laxative tablets, and I can say I was amazed at what this medicine did for me. It relieved my constipation so thoroughly that it cleared the sour, burning gas out of my stomach, which relieved the pressure around my heart and shortness of breath. This relief from constipation also relieved the dizziness, headache, spots before my eyes, and other distress, so that I truly feel like a new person, and advise everyone to try Vendol and see what it will do for them also."

Come to Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & Fourth Sts., and let the Vendol Man tell you all about this celebrated medicine that is doing so much good in this city and nearby communities. Vendol is sold by all leading druggists.

Tasty Meat Assures Meal Successes

RUTH CHAMBERS

There are some things about which a bit of boasting is permissible—a low golf score, the big fish that did not get away, Junior's good report card, and Friend Wife's superlative cooking About the last named matter, a man is usually very confident that he can show proof, but the lady whose skill he praises is apt to feel that she has been put "on the spot." She is sure she can cook a meal to please her husband, but what does she know about the preference of that old college chum, or the "boss," should her husband invite either of them to dinner?

Dinner Menu

Pineapple Juice
Baked Ham
Canided Sweet Potatoes
Buttered Peas
Lettuce Salad with French Dressing
Lemon Cream Pie
Coffee

Here's a tip for any homemaker who wants to make good her husband's boasts about her cooking. When it is a man you wish to please, pay special attention to the meat course. That's a safe rule because the majority of men like good meat. If the meat is well cooked, the rest of the dinner will, to a certain extent, take care of itself. The menu may be simple or elaborate. The success of the meal is assured by a well selected, perfectly prepared meat dish.

As to the question what to serve, your choice of roast, steaks or chops will depend upon your preference and convenience. A roast of beef, pork, lamb or veal, requires little attention after it is placed in the oven, sometimes a distinct advantage for it allows more time for preparing the rest of the dinner.

Roast Is Easy to Prepare.

A roast can be a very fine appearing dish. It can be attractively garnished with vegetables or fruit. A variety of foods can be used with any roast to make a most satisfying meal.

Standing rib or rolled rib roast of beef, loin or shoulder of pork, leg or shoulder of lamb, shoulder or loin of veal are among the other choice cuts for roasting. The usual rules apply—an uncovered pan, no water added, oven temperature from 200 to 350 degrees F. No searing and no basting required to take up your time! Place a rack under the roast, unless the ribs hold it above its own juices, as they do in a standing rib roast of beef.

In deciding upon your meat dish, don't overlook ham. When a whole ham is too large for your use, you may choose a half ham. There is nothing more delicious than baked ham and fortunately it is very easy to prepare.

Baked Ham.

Place the ham on a rack in an uncovered pan. Insert your meat thermometer so that the bulb reaches the center of the ham, but does not rest on fat or bone. Place the ham in a slow over (300 degrees F.) and bake until the meat thermometer registers an internal temperature of 160 degrees F. Allow twenty-five to thirty minutes per pound, unless you are baking one of the newer type hams now on the market which require a shorter cooking period. In that case, follow the cooking directions which accompany it.

If the rind has not been removed about forty-five minutes before the end of the cooking period, take the ham from the oven and with a sharp knife remove the rind. Then score the fat in diagonal lines to form diamonds. Decorate it in some attractive way, with cloves stuck in each diamond, with cherries, fastened on with toothpicks, or slices of pineapple or oranges, for example

Broiled Steak.

If you choose to have beef steak, select porterhouse, club or sirloin according to the size which is best for you. Be sure to have it cut thick, at least one inch and it may be thicker. Preheat the broiler and place the steak on the rack at a sufficient distance from the source of heat so that while the surface is browning nicely, the meat will cook half way through. Three inches is the right distance in most broiler ovens. Reduce the heat if you must place the meat closer. When the first side is browned, season the steak, turn, and complete the cooking.

Lamb chops are broiled according to the same rules. They, too, should be cut an inch thick or more for best results. Rib chops, with the meat removed from the rib ends and a paper frill placed thereon before serving are attractive. English chops, cut across the entire loin, with half a kidney placed on each, are very special and sure to be appreciated. The kidney halves are broiled separately.

Pork Chops Are Braised.

Pork chops are not broiled, as you doubtless know. Instead they are browned, then cooked very slowly with a little liquid added and the pan closely covered.

These are among the choices of meat dishes for a company meal to establish your culinary reputation with men who appreciate good food. It does not by any means exhaust the list. You may have a specialty of your own—it may be a grand pot-roast, or a way with meat balls. Whatever it is, if it is a fine way of serving the meat course, you need have no hesitancy in serving it to the most important guest.

New Ideas In Autumn Dishes

By IRENE OBERLIN
(Home Service Department of the Ohio Public Service Company)

Have you noticed a sudden reversal in the appetites of your family lately. Is Junior constantly hungry, and does that husband of yours come home starving? Well, that's because the crisp, autumn air is making the appetites sit up and take notice, so today we offer some suggestions for appetizing dishes.

Apple Flapjacks.

1 tbsp. shortening
1 tbsp. sugar
2 eggs
1½ cup flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1 cup apples (chopped fine)
cinnamon
milk

Cream shortening and sugar, add the beaten eggs, the flour sifted with the baking powder and cinnamon, and the chopped apples. Then gradually add milk to make a medium batter. Bake on a griddle as for ordinary pan cakes and serve with pork chops or pork roast.

Potato Pancakes.

2 cups grated potatoes
1 egg
2 tbsp. flour salt pepper
milk

Grate the potatoes into cold water to keep them from discoloring. Drain well and add the well-beaten egg—the flour and milk to make a stiff batter—add seasonings. Cook in a frying pan with hot fat to a depth of about ½ inch. A large spoonful of batter makes a good sized cake. Cook until well-browned and crisp and serve with meat and gravy. These are good with a stew.

Buttermilk Waffles.

1 cup cornmeal
1½ cup water
1 tsp. salt
1tbsp shortening
2 eggs
1 cup wheat flour
¾ tsp. soda
½ cup sweet milk
buttermilk

Cook the meal, water, salt and shortening for ten minutes, stirring constantly. Beat the yolk and whites of eggs separately until very light. When the mush is cool, add the yolks. Sift together the flour and soda and add to the mush alternating with the sweet milk. Fold in the egg whites, and finally add buttermilk to make a pour batter. Bake in a hot waffle iron. Allow this batter to stand a short time before the waffles are baked.

Baking Powder Muffins.

2 cups flour
½ tsp. salt
4 tbsp. sugar
4 tsp. baking powder
1 cup milk
1 egg
2 tbsp. melted shortening.

Mix and sift the flour, salt, sugar and baking powder. Add the milk gradually, the well beaten egg and melted fat. Pour into well greased muffin tins, filling two-thirds full. Bake in hot over 400 to 425 degrees from 20 to 25 minutes.

Graham Muffins.

2 cups graham flour
2 tbsp. sugar
½ tsp. salt
1 egg
¾ tsp. soda
1½ cups sour milk
½ tbsp. shortening
1 tsp. baking powder

Add milk, well beaten egg and the melted shortening to the dry ingredients. Fill the well-greased muffin tins about two-thirds full and bake in a hot over, 400 to 425 degrees 25 minutes.

Cornmeal Muffins.

1 cup cornmeal
1 cup flour
½ tsp. salt
4 tsp. baking powder
1 cup milk
1 egg
2 tbsp. shortening.

Mix and sift the cornmeal, flour, salt and baking powder. Add the milk gradually then the well-beaten egg and melted fat. Bake in well-greased muffin pans in a hot oven 400 to 425 degrees.

Raisin Bran Muffins.

1 cup bran
¾ cup flour
4 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
1½ tbsp. molasses
1 tbsp. melted shortening
½ cup seeded raisins
½ cup milk
1 egg

Mix and sift the flour, baking powder and salt; stir in the bran, add the molasses, melted fat, raisins and milk gradually. Then add well-beaten egg. Bake in hot oven 400 to 425 degrees for thirty minutes.

NURSERY COLOR SCHEME

A gay nursery color scheme combines red and blue accents with oyster white furniture. A cherry red trim brightens the furniture and on the footboard of the crib is painted a plaid calico dog.

FINGERMARKS.

To remove finger marks from washable wallpaper, rub gently with a soft cloth dipped in warm water. Wipe off quickly and then dry with a clean soft cloth.

ORANGE-SKIN MOLDS.

For a cool touch, mold frozen salads or desserts in halved orange skins.

Ham Delicious for Any Dinner

Baked ham, either a whole or half ham, is a fine looking main dish for the most important dinner party. It can be garnished attractively, for instance with cherries arranged in diagonal rows across the top. The ham is "Frenched" and a paper frill is placed about the end of the bone. Sweet potatoes, browned with the meat, are a good accompaniment for baked ham. Buttered peas are also on the menu.

OBERLIN HOUSE GETS NEW HEAD

OBERLIN — (U.P.) — A native French woman who has spent eight years in the United States has been selected to direct the Oberlin College French House, one of the oldest collegiate French houses in the United States.

Mme. Guy Humphrey, 57, succeeds Mme. Marie-Jeanne Lahaurine Johnston, who came here when the French House was founded in 1927.

'MUSSED SHIRTS'

PASADENA, Cal.—(U.P.)—During one of the hottest days of the season here, Superior Court Judge Frank C. Collier invited attorneys and everyone else in court to take off their coats if they so desired. Not a single man divested himself. District Attorney David J. O'Leary sweltering, remarked: "There seems to be a lot of mussed shirts present."

HAVE ROUND TAIL

WINNIPEG, Man.— (U.P.) —Nine nutria, a species of South American swamp beaver, arrived in Winnipeg over Canadian National lines consigned to the Blyth Fur farms of East Kildonan. The animals, similar to the Canadian beaver but with a rat-like tail instead of the flat beaver appendage, will be used for breeding purposes.

CRIME TEARS ON + + + + +

CHAPTER XXV

Already Stone was gently turning Hetty's head, and extracting many hairpins. When he felt sure he had them all, he looked over the lot. He found many that were alike, medium sized shell pins, and one tiny one, of the ordinary type, black, with little ripples in the prongs.

He laid the shell ones on the dresser, and showing Willis the little wire one said that he should keep it, and Willis must be a witness.

"Witness to what?"

"Only to the fact that I found this hairpin in the dead woman's hair."

"I'll do that, of course. Is she a servant?"

"She was the housekeeper. Sort of upper servant. She was an odd character."

"Odd enough to account for her suicide?"

"You think it was a suicide?"

"Looks like it to me. Who would want to poison her?"

"I can't deduce or suspect anybody. But still less can I think Hetty poisoned hersedf. She's have no reason to do so."

"You can't tell what secret reasons she may have had."

"It doesn't make sense. She was a happy soul, she had everything she wanted. She adored her husband, and he loved her. They had little tiffs now and then, but mostly in fun. How often a second murder follows the first. I consider this the second murder."

"And you think this woman's death is a follow-up?"

"I must try to find out. I think she knew she was poisoned and she knew who did it. But that's only surmise."

"There's an actress staying here, isn't there? A film star?"

"Miss Verne, yes. A charming girl."

"I'm told she inherits the old man's money."

"You were misinformed. Mr. Madison died intestate."

"He did! Who gets the fortune, then?"

"That will be settled by law. It has not been attended to yet."

Thinking the doctor a bit too inquisitive, Stone went back to the study.

But Willis followed him.

"I say," the doctor began, "do you know what poison she took?"

"I think so, don't you?"

"No. I don't. What was it?"

"Corrosive Sublimate, I'd say."

"Now why would you guess that?"

"I didn't guess it. I deduced it. You see, I make my living by deducing. I gathered it from some things that were said. You ought to have known, yourself."

"I suppose I ought to go home," Willis said, regretfully. "Do you think I might send a bill?"

"Of course. Just send it to the Harley Madison Estate, and it will be paid, I'm sure. Good day, then, if you're going."

Stone offered a cordial hand, and the doctor unwillingly left.

The detectives sat for a long time, thinking deeply. This new development seemed to him to make the problem more complicated. Subject to opposing evidence, Stone believed that a second murder was almost always the work of the same hand as the first.

But that put the men from the village out of the running. For if one of them had put an end to the life of Harley Madison, he surely could have no object in killing one of his victim's servants. Unless Hetty had, by some chance known of his guilt.

Try as he might, Stone could not come to the conclusion that a man from the village killed Harley Madison. It was hard enough to guess how a member of the family got into the locked room, but harder still to imagine an intruder from outside.

If Madison had been killed by someone in the house, and if Hetty knew who it was, that might explain Hetty's death. But in that case, the murderer must have been one of the servants.

Most plausibly, Wilkins or Elkanah. Never mind how they could get into the room, they had a better chance at it, than someone of those men in the village. And they would have been seen by somebody. Even Job Hendricks' attempt to get to Silver Hill was seen.

But Stone could not think of Elkanah killing his wife.

Wilkins, then? It was all idle speculation. He had no evidence, no scrap of reason to attribute crime to those two faithful workers.

What could they get out of it? Doubtless it was known, in the servants' hall that Mr. Madison had torn up and burned his will. How then, could they hope to benefit by his death?

The picnic party coming home about 10 o'clock, roused him from his reverie, and he went to greet them.

"Sit down, Miss Madison," Stone said, as Rosie took Cornelia's hat and wrap. "I have ill news for you."

"Tell me at once," Cornelia said, sinking into the chair he offered.

"Hetty is dead," he said. "She died late this afternoon. We think she was poisoned."

"What did she eat?" asked Cornelia; "do you mean ptomaines? I've told them to be careful about canned things. I never know what Mrs. Quinn will work off on them, when I'm not here. Where is Elkanah?"

"He's gone off by himself, somewhere. I sent for Doctor Bascom, but he couldn't come, so Doctor Willis came. He said Hetty was poisoned, and called Fenn, the medical examiner. They took her to the hospital for an autopsy."

Cornelia began to look bewildered.

"I'm so sorry for you," Yvette said, sitting beside her, and putting her arm round the shaking shoulders.

"Thank you, dear; but I'm all right. Give me a moment to recover. It's another blow. Hetty meant so much to me."

"You need a bracer, Aunt Corny," Tom said; "Wilkins, bring in a tray of drinks. Mr. Stone, was Hetty ill long?"

"A couple of hours. But she was unconscious most of the time."

"Was she rambling," Cornelia asked.

"Yes. She babbled words that made no sense. We will get the report from Doctor Fenn soon."

"What did she eat, Wilkins?" Miss Madison continued.

"We had canned salmon—if so it might have been that," Wilkins replied.

"Green apple pie with ice cream on it," Rosie added. "But Hetty was too sick before supper. She didn't eat any of the things we did."

"I wish some one could tell me the thing as it happened," Cornelia said. "Call Elkanah to me."

"I think I know more of the details than any one else, Miss Madison," Stone said, quietly. "Elkanah is so beside himself with grief, he can't talk coherently. He came to me with the news that Hetty was ill, or, rather he said she was intoxicated."

"Hetty! Intoxicated?" cried Miss Cornelia; "Never, in the world!"

"No, the doctors said she was not. But she was very ill."

"Poor Hetty. How do you explain it, Mr. Stone?"

"I can't say, as yet. The autopsy may tell the whole story. Why don't you ladies go to your rooms and rest a while. I will let you know when the reports come."

"Yes, come Cornelia." Anita took her arm.

The two went up the stairs and Avis (this was Yvette's assumed name) turned to Craig.

"I'd like to walk on the terrace a few moments," she said. "The night air will calm my nerves."

"Poor dear," Craig said, as he rose, "this is a house of horrors for you." He led her out on the terrace.

"For us all," Tom Sheldon declared. "Have you reason to think, Mr. Stone, that Hetty was murdered?"

"Yes."

"Well, my vote is for old Job Hendricks," Tom stated. "I know about his starting out with a ladder, and turning back, and all that, but, to my mind, he's the best suspect so far."

"Hendricks could have had a motive, something like this," Everett Ames suggested. "Say he did kill Mr. Madison, and say Hetty saw him, either coming or going; he might have wanted her out of the way."

"But he couldn't have come over here this afternoon, and given her poison!" Tom exclaimed.

"No, but he could have had a pal among the Madison servants. Say, Rosie, or some other pretty maid was his sweetheart; he could make her be his accomplice."

"Job Hendricks isn't likely to have a sweetheart among the Madison staff," Stone said. "Yet, if some one of the village people is responsible for Hetty's death, it apparently would have to be done by some accomplice in this house."

The telephone rang then, and Stone answered it.

It was Fenn, and he told the detective that Mrs. Garson had died from a dose of bichloride of mercury, which, as Stone knew, was another name for corrosive sublimate.

Fenn said, further, that a rather large dose had been taken, and he hoped that Mr. Stone would get busy at once, endeavoring to find the criminal, for it seemed to him unlikely that Hetty had taken it of her own accord.

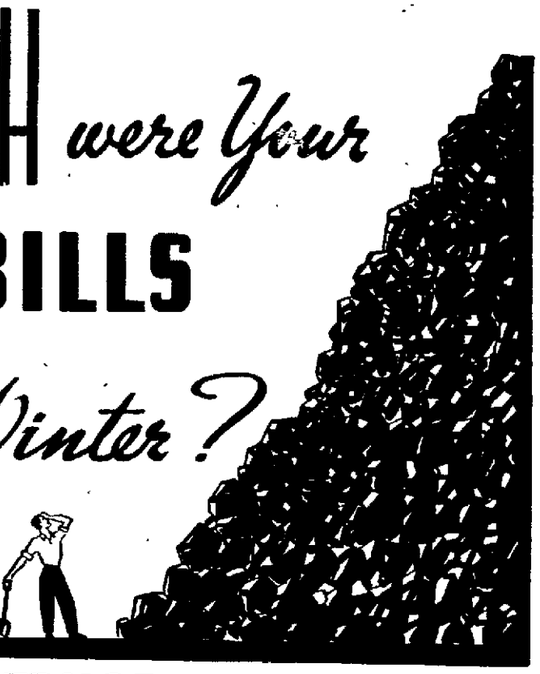
How HIGH were Your FUEL BILLS This Past Winter?



THEY CAN BE REDUCED AS MUCH AS 25%

If it cost you more than you think it should have to heat your home this past winter, it will pay you to investigate the many advantages of a blower-filter unit. This unit, one that FORCES the air through the rooms in your home by means of a fan, and at the same time filters the air free from dirt and dust, can be attached to your present furnace. It will definitely lower your fuel bills because it quickly and easily distributes the warm air from your furnace to EVERY part of the room—you do not waste fuel heating the air near the ceilings and the air in the basement to a temperature 15 degrees or more hotter than the temperature near the floor where you sit and read. That's why—

Attached to Your Present Furnace a Blower-Filter Will Cut Your Costs Amazingly!

This blower-filter unit can be attached quickly, easily and inexpensively to any furnace. It does not require complicated wiring, a lot of new ducts, or other costly installation work. In most homes, the total cost is less than $125.00. So why not let us send a competent heating engineer to your home to check your furnace and give you an estimate on a blower-filter unit that will keep your home cleaner, and reduce your fuel bills next winter. Remember, there is no obligation on your part for this service.

State Renews 50-50 Offer on Paving of West Fourth

AGREES TO PAY HALF COST OF CITY PROJECT

Proposal on $90,000 Improvement Same as One That Was Sidetracked in 1938.

The state of Ohio today renewed its offer to the city for the improvement of West Fourth street on a 50-50 basis.

The proposed project, estimated at $90,000, was presented to Mayor Claude M. Hunter today by Murray D. Schaffer, division engineer for the state highway department at Ashland.

It is the same project which the state first offered the city a year and a half ago and then was turned down by former Highway Director J. J. Jaster, who said no state improvements were to be made within corporation limits during 1938.

Hunter said that an early meeting of council's street and finance committee would be called to consider the plan.

The proposal which was drafted two years ago and which Shaffer said would be "changed some," calls for the repaving of the roadway from Ausdale avenue to North Diamond street, removal of the old street car rails and some reconstruction of sewer and water lines by the city

Plans Early Start.

Shaffer said the state was anxious to get to work on the improvement providing the city could see its way clear to "go along" on the cost on a 50-50 basis

"I feel that this is a worthwhile project for Mansfield and if the city is in position to finance its share of the cost, the highway department plans to get the project under way before spring," he said.

Shaffer explained that the original plan provided for resurfacing of the street with one section to be reconstructed, but because of the condition of the roadway, it was "quite probable" that the entire section would be reconstructed.

He asserted that the paving job was not an obligation of the state and it was only in the spirit of cooperation with the city that the offer was made.

The city's share of the cost is figured at approximately $45,000 which would be met by the property owners and the city jointly.

Kettering's Name Sent O. S. U. Board In Hunt for Prexy

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— The name of Charles F. Kettering, research director of General Motors, was suggested to trustees of Ohio State university today as a candidate for the presidency of the school.

The trustees were holding their 19th monthly meeting since the resignation of President George W. Rightmire and were attempting to narrow the field of candidates.

Kettering, an Ohio State alumnus, was described in a letter to trustees from Louis M Rosenthal, Columbus attorney, as "unquestionably of top ranking as a scientist, industrialist and trail blazer of modern living."

Another candidate was Dr. Philip Nash, president of the University of Toledo.

ASHLANDER, 80, DIES IN ROOM

Coroner Blames Alcoholism For Death; Found By Friend.

ASHLAND — Charles E. Nieman, 80, was found dead in his room on West Main street yesterday noon by police when they went to investigate after having been told that there "was something wrong."

Coroner George Emery, who was called, said the man died of acute alcoholism, probably soon after midnight Saturday. Police said the aged man had been put to bed by friends late Saturday night, who reported that he was intoxicated at the time.

Yesterday noon, Nick Sample, a friend of Nieman's, went to his home to see if the elderly man was all right. He found him dead and called police.

Nieman is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Alice Rogers, Middletown, Pa. Funeral services will be held at 7 p. m. today at the Denbow-Boer funeral home, with Rev. George Weatherbee officiating. The body will be taken to Middletown Tuesday for burial.

Up and Down THE STREET

When the Parent-Teacher association of Hedges school closed its annual membership drive last Saturday it not only increased its own membership but also brought in more than half of the P. T. A. quota for the entire city. One hundred new members were added to the Hedges group, bringing that association's membership to 454. The 13 P. T. A. units in the city have a quota of 182 new members this year.

A certain young Mansfield football player probably had a lot of explaining to do to his mother yesterday. When his team needed some line measuring sticks for a game Saturday afternoon, the youth went home and returned with two good ones—made from the handles of two of his mother's brooms. When his companions asked if he wouldn't have trouble explaining that, he told them he bought her two new brooms. Then they wondered if that wasn't expensive. "No," he replied, "I charged them to her."

A clever display of merchandise in the window of the Mansfield Typewriter and Office Supply company is attracting attention on West Third street. A locomotive and four open box cars are made of merchandise. The engine is made of a waste paper basket with a portable typewriter for a cowcatcher, wheels are of rolls of gum tape, the cab is of tablets and a pencil sharpener serves as a bell. The tender and four cars are arranged with open letter boxes as the body of the cars, while the wheels are adding machine tape rolls. Each car is piled high with "freight."

The fact that Canada is a nation at war hasn't made much difference so far as tourists from the United States are concerned, and it will take something more than a war to stop some of the enthusiastic hunters from this vicinity going after their annual bag of deer. C. W. "Cub" Marks, Helen avenue, and Willis Countryman, of Bellville, will make their annual trip to the wilds of northern Ontario late this month. They plan to leave about Oct. 28.

ASKS FOR BRIEFS

Judge Continues Injunction in Row at Publishing Plant.

ASHLAND — Common Pleas Judge H. E. Culbertson today continued an injunction restraining Rev. C. W Mayes and J. C. Beal from returning to work with the Brethren Pu_lishing company and asked counsel in the case to submit briefs.

Judge Culbertson issued a temporary injunction against the two men recently after the board of directors of the publishing company dismissed them allegedly for insubordination. They refused to quit until the court order was issued, contending that they were officials of the company and not subject to dismissal.

Counsel for the publishing house argued that the men were employes and could be dismissed for cause. Beal was former secretary of publications and Rev. Mayes was editor.

Rev. Willis Ronk and Rev. Dyoll Belote have been appointed to succeed them. The firm publishes literature for Ashland college and the Brethren church.

CHANDLER QUITS FOR SENATE JOB

Resigns as Kentucky Governor, Leaves to Take Oath as U. S. Senator.

(By United Press)

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Albert Benjamin Chandler, once the "boy wonder" of blue grass politics, resigned as Kentucky governor today to accept appointment as United States senator, filling the vacancy caused by the death of Senator M. M. Logan last Tuesday.

Lieutenant Governor Keen Johnson, Richmond newspaper publisher, succeeded Chandler as governor. His first official act after his inauguration as governor was to issue a senatorial commission to Chandler.

In ceremonies attending the retirement and inauguration, the 41-year-old Chandler, generally known as "Happy," reviewed his administration and turned over the reins of government to Johnson, who promised to carry on Chandler's work.

Chandler's four years as governor would have expired at the end of this year. Johnson won the Democratic nomination for governor in the August primary and was supported by Chandler.

After the ceremonies this morning, Chandler and Johnson left for La Grange where Chandler was to dedicate the new state reformatory buildings. Chandler, his wife and a party of friends will leave tonight for Washington where he is to take the oath of office in the senate Tuesday noon.

LEGION INSTALLS GARDNER AS COMMANDER, HITS BIGELOW PLAN

American Legionnaires of Ohio were on record today as actively opposing the Bigelow pension plan which comes before voters at the November election.

The action was taken by the executive committee of the Ohio department at a meeting Saturday night in Columbus at which R. B Gardner of Mansfield who became state commander Oct. 1, was formally installed at ceremonies at Franklin post.

Eli Jenson of Springfield, retiring state commander, was in charge of the installation.

The Legion's governing body opposed the proposed amendment to guarantee $50 monthly incomes to single persons and $80 to married couples over 60 years of age, as well as the plan to reduce the number of names required on initiative petitions for constitutional amendments.

The executive body based its opposition to the proposals on the grounds that they were in conflict with the preamble of the Legion constitution which promises to "combat the autocracies of both the classes and the masses."

The Ohio Legion, which has a membership of almost 200,000, will put its entire strength against the amendment, using its state publication and the radio for this purpose, Gardner said today.

"We believe that the Bigelow pension plan, which would require $300,000,000 a year, would not only bankrupt the state, but because it would be a constitutional amendemnt and would have to be paid for first out of state funds, that all other welfare institutions of the state would be sacrificed," he explained.

"And we are unalterably opposed to decreasing the number of names required on referendum petitions," he added. "Now is a time when we need, more than ever, to adhere to our fundamentals of government, and by reducing the number of names required to bring a proposal before voters, merely makes it possible for minority subversive groups to get a foothold on the ballot."

Among the Mansfield people who accompanied Gardner to Columbus were R. M. James, commander of McVey Post: Ralph Hughes, Howard Neuman, Kent Oberlin, H. E Pollock, John Perry, E. R. Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hill and Mrs. Gardner.

ARMY LEADERS MEET TO STUDY SPEED UP PLAN

Launches Program to Hurry Manufacture of Millions in Military Equipment.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The administration is considering plans to accelerate production schedules in private industry on "crucial" army orders, it was learned today.

This was disclosed as 52 district executives, in charge of the army's industrial purchasing program, began a week of conferences. The officers were summoned by Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson to discuss progress in the present program and to familiarize themselves with new procurement plans.

High war department officials have been canvassing the possibility of stepping up production schedules on so-called "critical" items—those in which the army faces a serious shortage. They include the new semi-automatic rifle, gas masks, and other equipment for which congress authorized expenditure of $110,000,000 at the last session.

The United Press was informed by a high official that the plan has not received "clearance" from President Roosevelt. He said the discussions have centered around the possibility of putting industries, some of which now operate but one or two shifts daily, on a 24-hour basis.

Production of some of the materials, which require a year to a year and a half to complete, he said, might be cut by as much as five or six months, and would involve additional maximum costs to the government of 25 per cent on an order.

The official described the plan as part of the program to build the army into a mobile, completely equipped outfit that could be thrown into instant action in an emergency.

DIES IN FLORIDA

Charles H. Colvin, 59, Was Kin of Mansfielders.

Relatives received word last night of the death of Charles Hale Colvin, 59, former Mansfield man, at his home in Lake Wales, Fla. He is the father of Miss Beatrice Colvin, teacher at West Fifth Street school, and a brother of Mrs. Ruppert Cox, West Third street.

Mr. Colvin was born in Mansfield June 4, 1880, the son of the late Edgar Remington Colvin and Mary Hale Colvin. He spent his early years in Crestline and later was engaged in business in Chicago until his retirement two years ago, when he went to Lake Wales to live.

He is survived by his wife, Lillian, his daughter, a son, Earl, of Hawaii, and two sisters, Mrs Joseph Koppe of Canton, and Mrs. Cox.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Capitalistic Nations Are Only Ones Where Citizens Have Any Real Liberties

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—In all the debate on the Hitler-Stalin revival of the World war nobody has yet pointed out that complete freedom of speech, religion and the press, and certain other luxuries of civilization, are preserved, in peacetime at least, only in capitalistic countries.

It does not follow that they are preserved even in peacetime in all capitalistic countries, but it is an important fact that in peace or war they are preserved with the worst ferocity in those countries which have gone Bolo in one guise or another.

Nevertheless, the Americans sometimes are asked to believe that the world would have nothing to lose but their chains in overthrowing capitalism when the obvious fact is that they would lose every ordinary habitual right.

The Russians, of course, never had any rights and therefore may be said to have lost nothing; but the Germans and Italians have been heavy losers and scoff at American freedom only because they were unfit to govern themselves as free people.

In this war the Hitler-Stalin propaganda has it that Germany and Russia are fighting against British and French imperialism, as though imperialism and capitalism were identical or twin evils and as though Bolshevism, whether Red or Brown, cannot be imperialistic.

But the only nations in the war which have revealed territorial ambitions are Germany and Russia, and Italy, sitting on the bench, ready to go in on one side or the other, already has made two conquests and advertised an intention to go out for more.

In the face of the facts of life in this country, it is foolish to argue that American capitalists want war or that people who are not consciously capitalistic but just go through life exercising the liberties permitted only under capitalism could improve their condition by overthrowing capitalism. The capitalists saw what happened to the capitalists of Italy and Germany and are as mindful of their own personal, human rights as anyone else.

That is why the American capitalists have been so apprehensive about the New Deal. They saw in some phases of the New Deal a resemblance to the method by which Hitler and Mussolini built up local, strong-arm bureaus to make and administer law by fear and the creation of a class of wards or dependents of the central government who would keep that government in power and increase its power for the sake of what was in it for them.

That might be an attractive proposition to the wards of the administration at the beginning, but, again, it is well to look at the other side, where a glimpse shows that dictators must force their wards into their armies and must make war.

No Democratic capitalistic nation has made war in these years since the rise of Bolshevism—red, brown, black and yellow. The wars all have been made by the dictatorships and the Russians, who once denounced poor old Chamberlain because he didn't fight in defense of human rights in Czechoslovakia, next denounced him because he did go to Poland's aid in defense of the same rights.

Not only that, but imperialistic Russia, which has acknowledged Poland's rights as a nation and dickered for the chance to invade Poland disguised as a friend, seized the opportunity to stab Poland in the back, capture about a third of the country and just about extinguished the feeble independence of the Baltics.

Everybody must realize that if this country should go to war, civil liberties would be suspended and that, win or lose, the cost would be so great that capitalism would be unable to pay off and therefore would perish. When capitalism dies, according to the precedents of Russia, Germany and Italy, freedom dies, too. Capitalism may be doomed, anyway, as some of the New Deal appointees have thought, but if so that is to be lamented, because only under capitalism, with all its faults, have the people the rights which to Americans are as natural as breathing.

Theoretically, the Communists say, some day it will no longer be necessary to rule by dictatorship in Russia. But after 23 years the Russian dictatorship is more ferocious than ever, and one man rules the millions. The Communists used to sing a song of derision about capitalism and religion which said, "Work and pray, live on hay; you'll have pie in the sky when you die."

Well, who are going to have pie in the sky when they die? Is anybody having pie in Russia after 23 years of Communism?

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—More or less personal to George Tucker, the Man About Manhattan:

I want to meet him, that writer fellow you wrote about the other day. The fellow who came to Hollywood from God's City for consultation on his book they're making into a movie. The fellow who was "thirsting for news" about the war, and in five days didn't hear a radio. The fellow who talked with producers, directors, hotel and restaurant men and bell boys—and heard talk only about pictures.

I want to meet him because I think his was an unique, even happy experience. I'd like to wander into those circles he told you about and for one day—just for one blessed day—get the war out of my hair and my ears and my consciousness. I'd like to see and be with people—just for one day—who don't know yet that the party's over.

In this humble position I do considerable wandering in and around the movie lots and restaurants, and I have yet to meet a person, high or low, who has not the war in his eyes.

It isn't only in the business offices, either, as your writer friend implies. I have heard radios in the studios, and I have seen groups of workers gathered around the newsstands, and I have seen their eyes—the helpless questioning, the fear, the shock, the pity, the outrage.

The war has been with Hollywood for months—in writers' table discussions in the studio restaurants. At Warner's Green Room the scribes gather daily and the din of Polish names, of Maginot line versus Limes line, of Stalin, Hitler, Goebbels, Goering drowns out the feeble peaceful sounds of plot, dramatic effect, and well-turned line.

I wonder if your writer friend was here long enough, in that first week of the war, to talk to workmen—carpenters, clerks, stenographers—who suddenly, because of those vague faraway things called "foreign markets," found themselves "at liberty." To talk to people who were doing good jobs until those jobs, in the retrenchment process, were suddenly removed. To publicity men, likewise doing good jobs, who were no longer "necessary."

Did he pause, by chance, near a movie set ("Tower of London") whereon most of the actors—Basil Rathbone, Ian Hunter, Boris Karloff, Ralph Forbes, Ernest Cossart, Ronald Sinclair—were British-born? Did he watch them over the headlines, hear them talking? Did he talk to friends of David Niven or Laurence Olivier or other British subjects who may be called?

The war is in Hollywood.

It comes on lovely secluded terraces where the sun shines and servants move quietly about and the luxury of Hollywood is tender. "Poor Charles Boyer—he is already in it," says the star who ought to be (if your writer friend is right, George) talking about pictures. Her own pictures.

Tygers Prepare for Invasion of Sandusky Saturday

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL,
News-Journal Sports Editor.

CINCINNATI — Now those old jokes about the National league being a minor league can be revived.

During a couple of innings out at Crosley Field before 32,794 startled witnesses Sunday, the National league color bearers didn't even look like minor leaguers. They resembled sandlotters of the rankest caliber.

Cincinnati's Reds were the best the National league had to offer in the way of competition for the terrific Yankees, but their best was not good enough to even make it interesting for Joe McCarthy's boys . . . and, may we add, Cincinnati would probably have encountered considerable trouble to finish in the first division had it been a member of the junior wheel this year.

There are four clubs in the American league which stack up stronger than the Reds on paper. Outside of Paul Derringer, Bucky Walters, Ernie Lombardi, Frank McCormick, Bill Werber and Ival Goodman, the Reds are very minor leaguerish.

The Yankees did not deserve every victory it registered, we admit, but they didn't lose any prestige. They're still the Yankees.

New York gave a number of examples of the various methods which can be employed to win ball games. Fine defensive play gave the Yankees their first victory. Monte Pearson's brilliant two-hit hill job was responsible for the second, four home runs turned the trick in the third and the Reds handed Sunday's tilt to the Yanks in the fourth and final tussle.

Sunday's victory was the Yankees' ninth straight world series triumph, and their 28th in their last 31 classic tilts.

Judging from what happened this year, it might be advisable to postpone the series the next few years, or until the National league can get a reputation.

Reds Play Stupid Ball In Finale.

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE to recall a game in which the cellar Mansfield Braves gave a performance as stupid as the Reds did Sunday.

The game was unquestionably the most ridiculous piece of baseball ever staged in what is called the Blue Ribbon classic of the diamond sport.

The Reds, who did not commit an error in any of the previous games, were charged with four Sunday, three coming in the 10th inning. This figure does not include a few mental lapses, either.

Cincinnati had the ball game in the proverbial bag going into the ninth with a 4 to 2 advantage. Then Billy Myers dropped a flip on the pivot of what appeared to be a cinch double play. The Yankees tied the score.

In the 10th, Myers committed his second bobble in as many innings on Charlie Keller's easy hopper. Well, to make a long story short, Goodman and Lombardi kicked in with two more errors, and there was your ball game.

It is unnecessary to explain that Lombardi added to the perfectly disgusting exhibition with his "dying swan" act in the 10th.

If the Reds have any pleasant memories of the series, it must be the nine hitless innings that they hung up against the Yankees in the last two games.

After Selkirk walked in the fifth inning of Saturday's game, the Manhattan Maulers did not get another man to first base until the fifth Sunday when the same Selkirk doubled to get the first hit off Derringer.

Quakers Score 20-0 Triumph

Lloyd "Bronco" Reese Paces New Philadelphia As Mansfield Suffers Second Setback.

By CHARLES MARTIN

A BAND of disappointed football players romped back on the practice field at Mansfield high today with one thought in mind—to beat the Blue Streaks of Sandusky high on the gridiron.

The Tygers have never been able to top the Sandusky outfit, but Coach Paul Snyder's athletes are determined to bust the jinx wide open this year when the Blue Streaks invade Stadium field Saturday.

Their hides tanned by a 20 to 0 drubbing by the Quakers of New Philadelphia Saturday afternoon before a gathering estimated at 2,000 in New Philadelphia's stadium, the Tygers hope to remedy several noticeable weaknesses which cropped up in that game.

After spotting the Quakers to a 13 to 0 lead in the opening half, Mansfield staged a couple of goalward marches that might have changed the situation had it been able to finish those drives.

* * *

Twice in that third frame the Tygers drove inside the New Philadelphia 15, but a fumble on the Quakers' one-half yard line, and a pass interception by Lloyd "Bronco" Reese, 195-pound halfback, halted the threats.

In the fading seconds of the game Mansfield opened another drive from its own three and had reached the New Philadelphia 40 before the gun ended hostilities.

Reese and Jack Castignola, the latter a clever broken-field artist, were the principal Quaker threats. Reese tallied one touchdown and Castignola scored one and tossed a touchdown pass to Benjamin, 195-pound end, for the other.

Hardly had the fans settled in their seats for the kickoff when Castignola brought them to their feet with a spectacular 76-yard gallop down the sidelines for the initial marker.

The fleet Quaker back skirted his own left end and outran the Mansfield secondary to score standing up. Benjamin's attempted placement for the point was wide.

Howard Hershey, the only Tyger back who was able to knife through the heavier New Philadelphia forward wall, put the winners in a hole shortly after that touchdown when he punted to the Quakers' five-yard stripe.

New Philadelphia, however, failed to let that cause any excitement. With Reese and Castignola carrying the mail, the Quakers pounded through the Mansfield defense for seven first downs and their second score. Wherley took Castignola's seven-yard aerial in the end zone. Benjamin's placement for the point split the uprights.

Hershey singlehanded carried the Tygers to the New Philadelphia 27, but the attack bogged down and the Quakers took the ball on downs. As the half ended Mansfield was again on the Quakers' 30.

After Mansfield's two threats in the third period had been throttled, New Philadelphia marched 83 yards for the final touchdown with Reese knifing over left end from the three. Benjamin again added the point from placement.

A short Quaker punt that went out of bounds on the New Philadelphia 37 gave the Tygers their first real scoring chance. A 15-yard penalty against the Quakers placed the ball on the winners' 22 and a first down put the pigskin on the 12.

Marshall Smith carried it to the Quaker one-half yard mark where he fumbled and Prysl recovered for New Philadelphia. Reese punted out, but the Mansfielders came charging back only to have Reese intercept one of Dave Templeton's heaves on the Quaker 15. The drive started on the New Philadelphia 31.

New Philadelphia piled up 15 first downs to the Tygers' 11, and picked up 299 yards from scrimmage while Mansfield was marking up 186 yards.

The Tygers held the edge in two departments, passing and punting. Mansfield averaged 41 yards on punts and collected five first downs on aerials. Mentor Snyder's proteges were also tops on returning kicks. They gained 54 yards by that method, while the Quakers tallied 11 yards.

Sport Parade

By HENRY McLEMORE

CINCINNATI—Perfection is very expensive. The New York Yankees have proved that.

Their victory over the Cincinnati Reds yesterday, which gave them the world's series and the championship of the world in four straight games, cost the owners of the team a pretty penny—and I mean a very pretty penny.

Had the series gone seven games the New York club would have profited to the tune of $300,000, because each game after four has been played is worth roughly, $100,000. Few persons know it, but the owners of a club that sweeps a world series lose money on the event.

The owners get nothing until four games have been played. Up until that point the swag goes to the players in the main, with a small amount being side-tracked into Judge Landis' office.

No one has ever explained this division, but it is understood that it was adopted as a guarantee that the players would be honest and give their level best to win as quickly as possible. You get what I mean: If the players shared in all the games some black sheep might attempt to make the series go the entire route.

In the past 12 years the Yankees have been in seven world series, or a possible 49 games. But in those series they played but 31 games. They swept the series in 1927, 1928, and 1932. They played six in 1936, five in 1937, and only eight in 1938 and 1939.

That means that by their superiority the Yankees have cost their owners something close to $2,000,000 since 1927. Two million dollars is not hay; as a matter of fact, it is not alfalfa, clover, or even, wheat. It is money, big money; such big money that even a club as rich as the Yankees could use it.

But to the credit of the Yankees, there isn't a man in the vast organization that would have it otherwise. When Colonel Jake Ruppert was alive he led the cheering for a clean sweep of a series. He resented any and all Yankee defeats, even though many of them were worth a small fortune to him. His successors have inherited his attitude. Ed Barrow wants the Yanks to win as quickly as possible. So does George Weiss and all the other executives.

MANSFIELD RUNNERS LOSE TO SPRINGFIELD

Coach Harry Mehock's cross country team dropped a 18 to 37 decision to Springfield Saturday. Hatter and Carey of Springfield finished one-two for the winners. Hatter was clocked in 11 minutes and 22 seconds. Yarmon of Mansfield finished third.

Search for National Football Champion In State of Confusion

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK — (AP) — The hunt for a national football champion has reached a state of confusion comparable only with a national league fan's explanation of the world series.

On a basis of last Saturday's disturbing results, the best bet for the 1939 champion seems to be somewhere in the south.

Such highly touted outfits as Minnesota, Northwestern, Fordham, and Holy Cross were unexpectedly beaten; Army, Navy and Notre Dame had narrow escapes.

Among those that have displayed real strength are Pitt and Cornell, in the east; Iowa, Ohio State, Nebraska and Oklahoma, in the midwest; Texas and Texas Aggies, in the southwest; Utah in the Rocky Mountains, and U. C. L. A., Southern California and possibly Oregon, on the west coast.

* * *

The south, however, offers Duke, North Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi and Mississippi State as candidates for top ranking, this week's intersectional program, however, may eliminate some of them.

Briefly, here's the situation:

East: Pitt, which followed its triumphed over Washington with a 20-0 win over West Virginia, shapes up as an outstanding forward-passing outfit. The Panthers will entertain Duke, which went to town 37-0 against Colgate, next Saturday, and the game should settle titular aspirations of one or the other. Cornell, in walloping Syracuse, 19-6, in its opener, looked a trifle too strong for Princeton, which it plays Saturday.

Yale, which whipped Columbia, 10-7, tackles Penn, 6-0 winner over Lafayette, while the Lions face army, which bareley eked out a 9-6 win over little Centre.

Fordham, brought up short 7-6 by Alabama, heads an eastern invasion of the south, playing Tulane at New Orleans. Holy Cross, swamped 26-7 by Louisiana State, meets Georgia, 20-0 victim of Furman in a Friday surprise. New York university tests North Carolina's Tarheels.

South: Virginia Tech gave North Carolina its best scrap so far, but went down, 13-6, leaving the Tarheels at the head of the southern conference parade with three victories. Mississippi State, backed Saturday's 14-0 win over Florida, faces Auburn, beaten 12-0 by Tulane, in this week's only southeastern conference game. Louisiana State, beaten by Mississippi in its opener, plays Rice of the southwest conference.

Midwest: defeats of Minnesota and Northwestern left Ohio State, Michigan and Iowa in the Big Ten forefront. The Hawkeyes outlasted Indiana, 32-29, in the opening conference game but Iowa runs right into Michigan, 26-13 winner over Michigan State in its opener. Ohio State, which defeated Missouri, 19-0, gets Northwestern on the rebound. Minnesota and Purdue clash in a consolation game, while Illinois plays Southern California at Los Angeles, and Chicago meets Harvard in intersectional games.

Notre Dame, the great independent, has had two close ones, beating Georgia Tech, 17-14, after a 3-0 win over Purdue. Southern Methodist is next in line for the Irish.

In the Big Six, the sturdy Nebraska line doesn't figure to have much trouble against Iowa State, beaten 14-0 by Kansas. Oklahoma has an engagement with Texas at Dallas which should put the winner right in the thick of the national title fight. The Longhorns continued their rise last Saturday with a 17-7 triumph over Wisconsin.

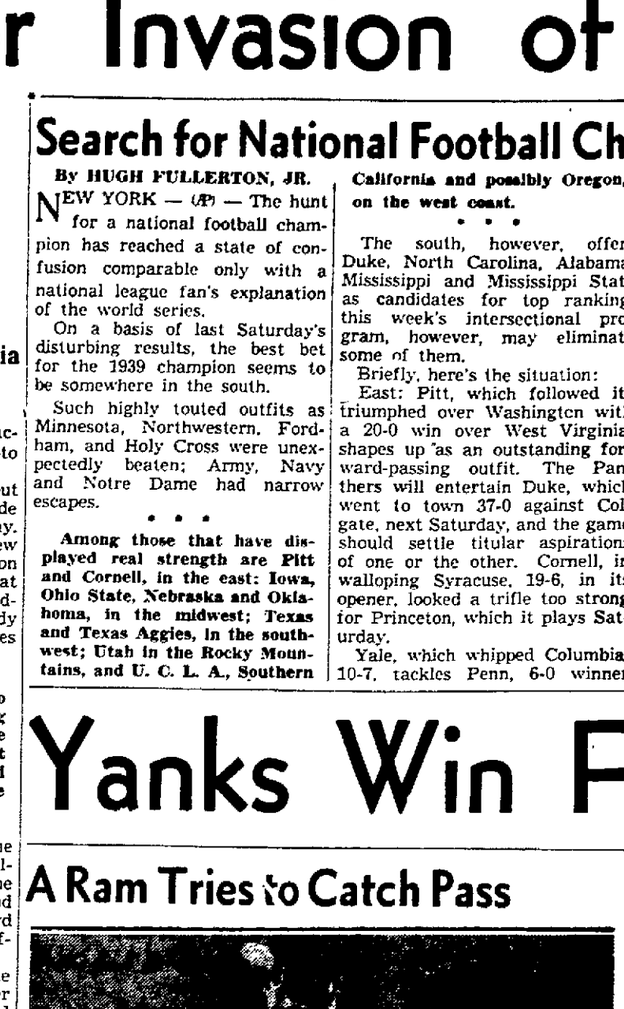
Southwest: Last year's champion, Texas Christian, is at the bottom of the heap, while Texas and Texas A. and M. share top ranking as a result of intersectional triumphs. The Aggies beat Santa Clara, 7-3, Friday. Arkansas bounced back from a non-conference defeat to take T. C. U., 14-13.

Pacific coast: It's Southern California and U. C. L. A. again in the coast conference since the Trojans recovered from their tie with Oregon to swamp Washington State, 27-0; the Ulcans conquered Washington, 14-7. Oregon beat Stanford, 10-0, to keep pace.

Yanks Win Fourth Straight Title

A Ram Tries to Catch Pass



Here is thrilling action on Fordham's 28-yard line in first quarter of Alabama game at the Polo Grounds, N. Y. Boswell of Alabama had slung a pass insended for Newman (33) but Fordham's Petroskas (23) intercepted. He failed to hold the ball, however, and the pass was incomplete. Fordham's Kuzman (24) is shown blocking. Alabama upset the Rams, 7-6.

Rams Lose to Chicago Team

Cleveland Grid Club Suffers 35 to 21 Beating.

(By United Press)

The National league football lead in both divisions remained unchanged today, and the pacemakers should consolidate their positions further this week when the only three undefeated clubs in the circuit meet three of the weakest outfits.

* * *

Detroit, western leader and only unbeaten, untied club in the league, meets Cleveland, a one-game winner in four starts; and Washington and New York, co-leaders of the eastern division who played to a scoreless tie, engage respectively Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, neither of which has won a game.

* * *

The New York Giants maintained the first place tie in the east Sunday when they put on a third-period passing rally to come from behind and beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 14-7.

Washington drubbed the Brooklyn Dodgers 41-13.

While the leading Detroit Lions were idle, the Green Bay Packers and Chicago Bears maintained their tie for second place in the western division. The Packers scored in every period to hand the Chicago Cards their fourth loss, 27-20, and the Bears whacked Cleveland 35-21.

Cubs Need One Win To Annex Series

CHICAGO—(AP)—Charley Root, veteran right-hander of the Chicago Cubs, goes to the mound tonight in an attempt to put the city series with the White Sox on ice. He will face Thornton Lee of the Sox in what may be the final game of the series.

The Cubs have won three games in five starts and need one more to clinch the city title. The Sox overcame a 5-run lead yesterday and won the fifth game, 8 to 5 in 10 innings.

Reds' Errors Prove Costly

Erratic Plays by Lombardi and Myers Pave Way For New York's 10-Inning Triumph.

By GAYLE TALBOT

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The one engraven memory of the 1939 world series ever will be the amazing sight of Ernie Lombardi, Cincinnati's out-size catcher, down and being stomped by relays of Yankees.

Somehow, the scene is symbolical of the entire series. The New York hooligans were not content to beat the Reds four straight, but they had to wind it up by making monkeys out of the National leaguers.

This town has taken a terrific pride in the Reds all season, but after yesterday's final 7 to 4 beating, after having watched them blow a two-run lead in the ninth, the citizens filed out of Crosley Field muttering—"Those bums!"

They were particularly bitter about Lombardi, who probably set an all-time record for clumsiness in a single world series contest. But they also were breathing fire at the mention of Billy Myers, the ill-starred little shortstop who muffed a toss from Lonnie Frey on a perfect double-play ball and set off the Yankee stampede.

* * *

What appeared to peeve the locals more than otherwise was that the Reds lifted their hopes so high just before the debacle. If the Yankees simply had won the game about 7 to 0 it would have been better. After having watched the McCarthymen bomb four home runs in Saturday's game they were saying dejectedly:

"Those Yankees, they are too good. But our boys are giving them a fight, eh?"

At least, there was no disgrace in bowing to what even the old-timers now admit is the greatest club ever. But for the Reds to prove that they were capable of winning a game; to go into the ninth with the ball game in their pockets and then fall apart—that made the good burghers plain mad.

The Yanks got Lombardi down twice, in the ninth and 10th innings, but it wasn't until the 10th that they trampled him seriously. Ernie, at 215 pounds, simply isn't cat-like. It is altogether probable that Willard Hershberger, the Reds other catcher, will do most of the catching for Cincinnati next season.

Nobody could have suspected that the baseball gods had put the whammy on Myers and Ernie when the ninth opened. The Reds were ahead 4 to 2. Bucky Walters was pitching tight ball after having relieved Paul Derringer the previous inning, and the crowd of nearly 33,000 was going to town. The Yankees had made only three hits, two of them home runs by Charlie Keller and Bill Dickey.

Keller, the rookie batting hero of the series, started the strange string of events by singling to center. Joe DiMaggio scratched a blow to left, but still nobody was much worried. On the next pitch Dickey slapped a roller squarely at Frey—an easy double play. Lonnie flipped it to Myers. Myers dropped it, and the panic was on. Keller scored.

Selkirk flied out, and on the next play Joe Gordon dumped a roller down the third-base line to Bill Werber, who fielded it beautifully and pegged to Lombardi in plenty of time to nip DiMaggio at the plate. Ernie dropped in and fell all over the infield as DiMag slid across with the tying run.

But that was only the ninth inning, and Lombardi hadn't even begun to suffer. Crosetti walked to start the 10th, and was sacrificed to second. Keller grounded to Myers, who juggled the thing like it was red-hot. All hands were safe. Take it away, Lombardi.

DiMaggio lined a hit to right, and everybody started running. Ival Goodman, caught in the epidemic, let it get through him as Crosetti scored, but recovered the agate and made a perfect throw to the plate to cut off Keller.

Down went Lombardi, Keller and the ball in a cloud of dust. The ball rolled free. The crowd groaned, and so did Lombardi. DiMaggio circled third about this time, running like a scared rabbit, and headed for the mad scene around home plate.

Somebody managed to warn Lombardi. He grabbed the elusive pellet, dived at DiMaggio, and down he went again. Ernie had been engulfed. The world series was just a painful memory. The only official protest was lodged by Coach Jimmy Wilson in the Reds' funeral clubhouse.

"I don't think that DiMaggio went around the bases at all," he said. "He must have cut across on us."

Bill McKechnie, who holds the doubtful distinction of being the only manager to lose two world series in consecutive games, had no word of complaint for his downcast and down trodden players. He arranged a hunting trip with Myers for the winter.

The sign on the Reds' bulletin board still said: "Next stop New York. Train leaves Monday at 5:30 p. m."

Series Figures

CINCINNATI—(NS)—The victorious Yankees each receive $5,614.26, which is $168.50 short of the all-time high in a four-game series, for their labors in the ball classic. Each of the losing Reds gets $4,282.58.

The four-game series brought a total paid attendance of 183,849 and aggregate receipts of $745,329.09. The commissioner's share of the gate was $111,799.36 while the clubs' and leagues' cut amounted to $253,411.89.

Supplies Win Wild Contest

Six Players Banished for Fighting as Mansfield Turns Back Canton for Fourth Victory.

AS WILD a semi-pro football game as ever witnessed on a Mansfield gridiron was unfolded to some 500 spectators at Blue Goose field yesterday afternoon when the undefeated Automotive Supplies turned back a fighting Neago Cafe combine of Canton, 20 to 13, for their fourth consecutive victory.

Everything went along smoothly for nearly three periods while the Supplies piled up a 20-0 advantage and then the fireworks started.

The Canton team,, composed of former Canton McKinley stars, unlimbered a dangerous aerial attack that netted a touchdown. And on the next kickoff things happened.

Canton downed the Supplies' ball packer on the return of the kick and when the pile of humanity untangled itself a Mansfielder and a Canton man came up swinging haymakers. The scuffle was halted by Referee John Crider and Smith of Mansfield and Lother were tossed out of the contest.

But that failed to dampen the spirit of the Neago team. A couple of plays later, with Canton throwing caution to the wind in an effort to score, Gaylord Bucher and Sam, Canton guard, were banished from the wild and woolly affair.

The Cafe gridders, who hadn't tasted defeat in 16 straight games, didn't stop there. In a desperate effort to overtake the Mansfield team Canton continued to show their "fighting" spirit.

After recovering a Mansfield fumble on the winners' five, John Savage heaved a pass to George Zugrave in the end zone for Canton's second touchdown. When the players untangled, Elmer Dials, and Brown of Canton were going at each other and Crider sent both to the sidelines, but not before approximately 200 fans rushed onto the field.

Umpire Ike Fetter halted any further hostilities by ordering the loyal followers from the playing field.

The excitement ended there for Mansfield gained possession of the pigskin on the kickoff and held it until the gun finished the game.

Although outweighed, Canton possessed a passing offense that at times had the Mansfield team running around in circles.

Led by tow-headed Charles Rotar whose play throughout the contest brought cheers from the rooters on both sides, Canton came out in the fourth chapter to put up a wide open aerial circus that would do credit to any semi-pro outfit.

Rotar and Savage alternated in tossing the ball and both sent all available men out as potential receivers. For a while it looked like the Supplies might have a hard time protecting their lead.

Dials put Coach Earl McMullen's team in the lead early in the setto by taking a 15-yard heave from Al Schwaner in the end zone. Joe Miller's attempt placement was wide.

In the second quarter, Al Schwaner gave the fans a thrill by galloping 80 yards for a touchdown. It was a brilliant piece of broken field running. He added the point from placement.

Mansfield's final tally came after the intermission on a 50-yard triple lateral that started with Vern Heiser and ended up with Deek running over the double stripe from the 15. Al Schwaner raced around left end for the point.

Rotar, however, took command of the situation for a while. Canton, which had failed to mark up a first down until midway in the third stanza, struck through the air and Rotar climaxed a 64-yard drive when he snagged Savage's pass in the end zone from the Mansfield two.

Rotar, whose punting was a feature of the game, missed the try for the point when his dropkick was low.

Mansfield registered seven first downs while Canton was manufacturing six.

The contest might have had a different ending had the officials allowed a touchdown Mann scored early in the third period. The Canton end snagged the ball on an attempted forward and ran 50 yards for a score. Canton was offside and the play was called back.

Mansfield's smooth-working forward wall staged a spectacular performance throughout the contest. Numerous times the slashing Supply linemen halted Canton plays before they could get underway. Their blocking on offensive plays was a highlight of the setto.—By CHARLES MARTIN.

Bucks Prepare For Wildcats

Ohio Looks for Tough Battle From Northwestern.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— With one victory under their belts, Ohio State University's Buckeyes went back to the practice field today to smooth over some rough spots in their style of play and prepare for Saturday's Big Ten encounter against Northwestern.

The scarlet and gray squad, which displayed flashes of its old time power in defeating Missouri, 19 to 0, refused to consider Oklahoma's 23-to-0 whitewashing of Northwestern as any more than a startling upset.

As far as the Bucks are concerned, the Wildcat outfit is one of the toughest on the schedule and will be treated as such.

In outscoring Missouri the Bucks ran up the impressive total of 362 yards from scrimmage, 145 of which were gained through the air. Ohio completed nine passes out of 25 and two of those aerial heaves accounting for touchdowns. Quarterback Don Scott tossed a payoff pass to End Frank Clair. He ran 34 yards for the other score. Simione's pass to Anderson accounted for the additional six points.

Although Ohio was clearly superior to Missouri, it must correct several faults before there is too much thought of big honors. The pass defense must be improved. The ends must get down quicker on offensive passes. The tackling was spotty Saturday and could be improved considerably.

On the right side of the ledger were the accuracy of the passers in tight spots, power on off tackle smashes, well directed lateral passes and the best blocking a State team has exhibited in years.

* * *

Saturday's Big Ten schedule: Harvard at Chicago; Illinois at Southern California; Indiana at Wisconsin; Iowa at Michigan; Purdue at Minnesota; Northwestern at Ohio State.

HAGER LEADS TYGERS TO WIN OVER SHELBY

With Al Hager pacing the attack with a 72, the Mansfield high golf team walloped the Shelby High Whippets, 16½ to 7½, in the Tygers' closing match of the season at Possum Run Saturday.

Hager turned in a pair of 36's to equal par, while Bob Lehman was low for the Shelby team with a 79. He lost his match to Hager.

Lake Sinks 301-Yard Ace at Possum Run.

Tony Lake today had joined golf's Hall of Fame after scoring a hole-in-one at the Possum Run course Saturday. The Mansfield shotmaker carded his ace on the 301-yard No. 8 hole. It was the longest ace collected on a Mansfield golf course this year. He was playing with Clifford Faust when he accomplished the feat on the par-four hole.

BRIDE-ELECT FETED AGAIN AT GALION 'BRIDAL BRIDGE' PARTY

GALION — Elizabeth Bland whose marriage to Karl Baker of Boston, Mass., will take place Saturday, Oct. 14, was again the honoree at a party given Saturday evening by Mrs. Kenneth Petri and Dorothy Riddle at the Petri home here. During the evening, the group of twenty-two friends of Miss Bland, played "bridal" bridge, and at the close of the evening presented her with a personal shower of gifts. Those who received prizes for the bridge games were Lucy Ailer, Mrs. Franklin Craun and Jpanita Curren.

Miss Bland found her gifts by shutting off alarm clocks which had been set throughout the home where the gifts were hidden. Each guest was presented with a favor which consisted of 'a photograph of the bride-elect as she appeared in a formal gown for her announcement party which was given recently.

On the table where a buffet lunch was served, was a centerpiece of cut flowers, and lighted tapers. Colors of brown, orange, white and yellow were used in the decorative scheme for the party.

Mrs. Harold Leech of Columbus was an out-of-town guest.

Presidents of the local federated women's clubs of the city are invited to a dinner meeting of the Galion Business and Professional Women's club to be held on Thursday of this week at the First Lutheran church. The dinner meeting is the regular October meeting, and also will celebrate National Business Women's Week. Judge Constance Keller of Bucyrus, will be the guest speaker of the evening.

LUTHERAN AID SOCIETY MEETS AT CRESTLINE; SUPPER PLANNED

CRESTLINE — A number of guests were present for the October meeting of the English Lutheran Aid society Wednesday at the church. It was decided to hold the annual election night supper in November and to meet at the church next Tuesday to do more canning for the Oesterlen Orphans' Home in Springfield.

Mrs. C. E. Marshall presided. The financial report for the year ending Sept. 30 was read by the secretary, Mrs. Margaret Gelbach.

Following a talk by Rev. S. A. Metzger on the United Lutheran church program on Evangelism, supper was served by a committee.

The Past Matrons' club of Harmony chapter, O. E. S., met at the Blue Lantern Wednesday evening with Mrs. A. J. Douglas and Mrs. Edward Boyer of Galion, two out-of-town members, as hostesses.

Following the 6 o'clock dinner the business session was presided over by Mrs. Will Hartman, retiring president.

New officers elected are Mrs. C. I. Peaslee, president; Mrs. Paul Post, secretary, and Miss Cora Cover, treasurer.

Mrs. F. E. Speelman and Miss Mary Patterson received the respective prizes awarded in games of bridge and rook.

Twenty were present, including one guest, Mrs. Charles Straile.

The November meeting will be held at the same place with Mrs. Peaslee and Mrs. T. O. Nelson hostesses.

Current Events club members went to the home of Mrs. William Montieth in Mansfield Thursday for their October meeting. Mrs. Montieth, formerly of Crestline, retained her membership in the club. The program consisted of a paper on "Radio's Latest Triumphs," read by Mrs. Jacob Schindler, and current topics discussed in general.

At the close of the program Mrs. Montieth and her guests were served a 6 o'clock dinner at the Parkway restaurant.

Mrs. Elizabeth Reiger will be hostess for the club's next meeting, Oct. 30.

B. A. BROWN DIES

Crestline Railroad Employe Was Ill for 6 Weeks.

CRESTLINE—Bert A. Brown, 63, of 210 East Main street died Saturday at 10 p. m. at Emergency hospital where he was admitted the previous evening for treatment. He had been ill the past six weeks with complications.

Mr. Brown was employed as a baggageman on the Fort Wayne division of the Pennsylvania railroad.

He was born January 9, 1876 in Ft. Wayne, Ind.

His marriage to Miss Florence Hoover of this place occurred September 22, 1918. He is survived by his widow.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 9 a. m. from St. Joseph Catholic church. Rev. F. A. Slattery, pastor of the church will officiate and burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

RELIEF COSTS IN SHELBY DROP

SHELBY — Increased industrial activity in this city lowered the relief load in Shelby for the past month, Public Relief Clerk Gail Haun said today. A number of persons were cut off of the rolls when they obtained employment in private industry, Haun disclosed.

Haun predicted that the rolls would drop even more during October as a number of the persons who received relief early in September were given employment in Shelby industries before the month ended, but as they had received relief in the month were kept on the rolls. All of Shelby's industries have shown increased activity during the past month due to the European war.

Maureen O'Hara, little Irish girl who played in two Dublin Players vehicles and who left the Dominican convent in which she was educated only 18 months ago, will play the gypsy, Esmerelda . . .Calvin R. Darnell, Dallas, Tex., postal carrier, can't believe his good luck. His daughter, Linda, zoomed to the top in her first picture, "Hotel For Women" and when he was following the picture around Lallas at the neighborhood house, he ran into a bank night and won $1,500 . . . Vincent Sheehan's "Personal History" is being scenarioed for a picture, as is the very popular "Forsythe Saga" . . .

Does Character Role.

James Ellison forsakes straight heroic roles in "Fifth Avenue Girl" for an amusing character study. He plays a disgruntled proletarian chauffeur in the employ of a millionaire manufacturer, Walter Connolly. His bombastic discourses on economics and his hectic romance with the boss' pretty daughter, provide hilarious sidelights on the romantic comedy in which Ginger Rogers has solo starring billing. Tim Holt appears opposite Miss Rogers. The picture is at the Madison.

Adds to Villainy.

Brian Donlevy adds another layer to the blackness of his screen villainy as Sergeant Markoff, the dastardly Foreign Legionnaire who incurs the hatred of his men and get a sabre through his heart at a lonely post in the Sahara desert. P. C. Wren's stirring and gallant "Beau Geste," a tale of three English brothers in the French Foreign Legion, is the attraction at the Ohio this week. In the cast are three popular screen heroes—Gary Cooper, one of the veterans of the box office, Ray Milland, handsome English star, and Robert Preston, one of the youngest in point of movie service. Susan Hayward has the brief feminine lead.

Blackmail and Murder

Walter Pidgeon and Virginia Bruce play an attorney and his wife in "Stronger Than Desire," at the Ritz, and enact a dramatic story of blackmail and murder. A court room scene and an unusual climax give the picture an interesting highlight. Rita Johnson, Ann Dvorak and Lee Bowman are in the cast. Four girls fight for their mother's happiness in "Daughters Courageous," with Priscilla, Rosemary and Lola Lane and Gale Page featured.

Gable and Shearer.

For its mid-week bill the Majestic offers "Idiot's Delight," the Robert Sherwood play which won the Pulitzer prize three years ago, and which has been made into a screen play with Clark Gable and Norma Shearer. The subject is timely now for it is baesd on the work of the munitions makers in involving the world in war. Gable plays a song and dance man, and Miss Shearer is the Kansas acrobat who becomes a pseudo countess. Edward Arnold and Joseph Schildkraut are featured. The second film is "The Kid From Texas" with Dennis O'Keefe and Florence Rice.

Plays Herself.

Lupe Velez, peppery Mexican actress, who has spent most of the past three or four years in personal appearance tours, came back to Hollywood long enough to make "The Girl From Mexico" in which she plays a role that is very similar to her own character. Miss Velez was a singer in a Mexican night club before her picture career, and she plays a night club singer in the picture. Donald Woods is seen opposite her. The major attraction at the Park, however, is the dramatic psychological study, "Five Came Back" with Chester Morris, Joseph Calleia, Lucille Ball and others.

500	88.34	46.46	29.75	21.44

Examine this table. It shows that $4.46 a month repays everything on a $100 loan in 30 months. The faster you pay, the less the total cost. These payments are calculated at Household's new reduced rates of 2% monthly on balances up to $300 and 6% yearly on balances over $300 to $500. These rates are less than legal maximum, and are the same to everyone—one price to all. Only borrowers sign—no endorsers on any loan. No credit inquiries of friends or relatives.

TRADING LAGS AS MART KEEPS EYES ON EUROPE

Volume Dwindles During Early Hours, Steel News Helps to Brighten Picture.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Small price changes either way ruled in today's stock market proceedings.

Volume dwindled further after a slow opening and, near the second hour, the ticker tape frequently was motionless.

There was little change in the war-peace guesses propounded in boardrooms and, brokers said, most traders inclined to stand aside, or keep commitments light, pending more definite news from Europe.

Foreign markets failed to provide any clue as the near-future course of securities quotations, and mixed prices prevailed in the principal centers. Bonds and commodities were uneven.

Markets found considerable comfort in forecasts of expanding activities in the steel industry.

The magazine "Steel" said: "Consumers generally are covered for the quarter's requirements, in some cases through early 1940. Consequently, new business had moderated, but rising consumption is reflected in pressure for deliver and in heavier demands on warehouses, users unable to obtain sufficiently prompt shipments from mills."

ILL TEN YEARS, DIES IN ASHLAND

Mrs. Belle Johnson, 65, Stricken; Funeral to Be Wednesday.

ASHLAND—Mrs. Belle Johnson, 65, died at her home on Maple street after having been in failing health for ten years.

She was born May 6, 1875 in Wood county and came here from Trumbull county in 1937.

Surviving are her husband, Elza A. Johnson, her sister, Mrs. Mary Blackburn, of Weston, O., and two brothers, James Donald of Weston, and Watson Donald of Grand Rapids.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday at the home, with Rev. Theo Brumbaugh, Trumbull county, officiating. Burial will be in Savannah cemetery.

BOY CYCLIST, 14, DIES OF INJURIES

Youth Was Hurt Internally as Bike Struck Auto; Fatality 17th of Year in County.

only one minor accident.

The Smeyak youth died at 11:05 a. m. Sunday from internal injuries received when his bicycle struck a car driven by R. J. Swallen, 187 Raleigh avenue. Swallen told police the boy ran into the side of his machine as he was making a turn off Orange street into the driveway of the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company.

Born in Scalp Level, Pa., March 12, 1925, the youth came to Mansfield with his parents in 1930. He was a member of the 9-B class at John Simpson Junior high school and attended Sunday school at St. John's Evangelical church. Surviving besides his parents are his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Orris of Dayton.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 4 p. m. Tuesday with Rev. Paul Saleste, pastor of St. John's church, officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Young Charles was one of two John Simpson students injured last Tuesday in bicycle accidents. Thomas Wolford, 14, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Wolford, 824 Park avenue west, is confined to General hospital with two fractured vertebrae received when he fell from his bycycle while riding down a hill in Middle park. His condition was reported as "good" today.

In the only accident reported in this vicinity over the week-end, Carl Bonyal, 40 High street, received scratches about the face when thrown from his car when struck by a freight train at the B. & O. crossing on North Mulberry street. Police said his car was demolished.

Among the 10 persons killed in the state, two were the result of bicycle accidents. Alfred Morris, 22, of Curtice, was injured fatally when his bicycle was struck by an automobile driven by Lambert St. Benore, 26, of Oak Harbor, and Roy Gearhart, 40, died after the bicycle he was riding was struck by an auto near Eaton.

Hosey H. Donohew, 48, of East Liverpool, was killed at Lisbon when the wheels of a Columbiana county truck backed into a parking space and crushed Donohew as he lay asleep, and Mrs. Elizabeth Zivcak, 38, Cleveland was killed instantly when a parked coupe in which she was sitting was struck from the rear by an autoombile driven by William Davis, 20, of Avondale, suburb of Canton.

Joseph G Machuens, 32, and Eugene Brun, 32, both of Dayton, were killed at Xenia when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by one carrying four Springfield negroes.

Rufus Jacobs, 57, Spanish-American war veteran, was drowned when he walked off the end of a pier into Sandusky Bay and Richard Ankron, 19, Washington C. H., died of injuries received when a tractor overturned on top of him as it was being unloaded.

Dies Charges U. S. Officials Are Aiding Communists

SCORES TALKS MADE BEFORE 'RED FRONTS'

Flays 'Government Officials' Booked for Addresses at New York Rally.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Rep. Martin Dies, D., Tex., charged today that "prominent government officials" are lending "aid and support to the communist party in the United States" by continuing to appear before gatherings sponsored by "communist front" organizations.

Dies' remarks were made during testimony of Kenneth Goff, Delavan, Wis., salesman who resigned from the communist party and the young communist league while appearing before the committee investigating unAmerican activities.

Goff had mentioned organizations into which communists had "infiltrated," such as the American Youth Congress and the National Negro Congress. Dies then called attention to a "so-called national conference of civil liberties" to be held in New York Oct. 13 and 14, and said that he understood "prominent government officials" would speak at that meeting.

Rep. J. Parnell Thomas, R., N. J., sought to have Dies name some of the officials. The committee chairman refused, declaring they would be announced in the press later.

Dies said that the New York civil liberties meeting would be sponsored, among other organizations, by the American League for Peace and Democracy, the National Negro Congress, and the International Labor Defense, which, he said, the committee had found to be communist "fronts."

The action of government officials in appearing before these groups, Dies said, amounts to "opposing the work of this committee and lending aid and support to the communist party in the United States."

"There must be some way of making these people realize what they are doing," he declared.

Goff said that he had been a member of the communist party since 1936 under the name of "John Keats," and had worked for the party in such groups as the young Townsend old age pension movement in Wisconsin, where he held the post of state secretary.

2 BURGLARIES OVER WEEK-END

Shotgun, Skates and Canoe Stolen, Say Reports To Police.

Two burglaries which netted thieves $73 worth of property were reported to police over the week-end.

D. W. Kaylor, 19 Parkway drive, told police he returned home Saturday after a two-day absence to find the basement door broken open and the house ransacked. He said a shotgun and two pairs of ice skates valued at $28 were missing.

At North Lake park, William Spriggins, the custadian, reported that the boat house had been broken into and a canoe valued at $45 stolen

U. S. Tribunal Agrees to Hear Three Controversies Between A. F. of L. and CIO.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The supreme court agreed today to pass on three controversies between the American Federation of Labor and the CIO over interpretation of the National Labor Relations act.

Acting on approximately 300 petitions filed during the summer, the court consented:

To review a decision by the United States court of appeals for the District of Columbia leaving in effect a certification by the labor board of a CIO union as the exclusive bargaining agency for Pacific coast longshoremen. The court of appeals said it did not have jurisdiction to pass on the controversy.

To pass on a ruling by the sixth federal circuit court denying the labor board the right to place the name of only one labor organization (a CIO affiliate) on the ballot for a run-off election to determine collective bargaining representation for employes of the Consumers Power company at Jackson, Mich. The federation argued that its affiliate should be placed on the ballot.

To review a decision by the fifth federal circuit court setting aside a labor board order directing the Waterman Steamship corporation of Mobile, Ala., to reinstate a group of employes with back pay, they were dismissed after changing their membership from a federation affiliate to a CIO unit.

The circuit court held the dismissals were for economy.

These were among the scores of petitions filed during the court's summer recess.

C. OF C. HOLDS 'VICTORY DINNER'

Workers Who Signed Up 117 New Members in Campaign Celebrate Thursday.

A "victory dinner" will be held Thursday at the Mansfield-Leland hotel for Chamber of Commerce workers who concluded the organization's fall membership drive Friday by enlisting 117 new members.

A total of 99 new members were reported at a luncheon Friday noon with three teams tied for first place. During the final hours of the drive 18 more memberships were signed up.

First honors in the campaign went to the team of John L. Connors and E. C. Geiger who signed up 13 new members. E. A. McFarland and B. B. Boals were second with 12 new memberships, and in third place was W. R. Mehl and Dean Eckert with 11 members.

The campaign which went over the top had been staged during the past five days to obtain a quota of 80 new members.

At the dinner which is scheduled for 6:30 p. m. Thursday, awards will be presented to winning team workers by C. L. VanDerau, president of the chamber.

HOST AT PARTY

Oil Distributors Expect 600 at Event Here Tomorrow Night.

More than 600 automobile dealers, independent garagemen and service station men from north central Ohio are expected to attend the 12th anniversary party of the Rodney M. Flemming company, oil distributors, at the Leiderkranz hall tomorrow night.

R. C. Fetterman, Mansfield, district agent for the company said that dealers from Ashland, Richland, Knox, Huron and Seneca counties have been invited.

ESTATE RAIDED, CONSUL HUNTED

California Sheriff's Squad Interrupts Gambling Games of 200.

CULVER CITY, Calif.—(AP)—Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz sought Prosper Reiter, Luxembourg consul, for questioning today after an anti-gambling raid on the hilltop mansion which housed the tiny nation's consulate.

Reiter reportedly was "weekending out of town" when a sheriff's squad seized two men guarding a steel gate to the 77-acre wooded estate and paid a surprise Sunday afternoon call at the pretentious dwelling.

The officers ordered 200 persons, most of them women, to leave, and arrested four men described as card dealers on charges of violating a county gambling ordinance.

G. O. P. WAITS

Municipal Campaign Won't Be Launched Until Next Week.

Mansfield Republicans probably will wait until next week to start their campaign for mayor and other municipal offices, Ralph Hardy, county G. O. P. executive chairman, said today.

"We don't want to wear out the public with political speeches and campaigning," Hardy said, adding that three weeks would be enough to present the issues to voters.

The executive committee will meet Wednesday night to plan a schedule of meetings and campaign activities for the three-week period. There probably will be two rallies a week during the campaign, one in each of the six wards in the city, Hardy said.

W. J. Locke, candidate for mayor, and the other Republican candidates, will speak at the opening rally, tentatively set for early next week. The municipal election is four weeks from Tuesday.

TAX SUIT CASE UP TOMORROW

Jury Session Here Delayed to Allow Marriott to Appear Before Appeals Court.

A session of the new county petit jury, scheduled for this morning, was continued until 9 a. m. Wednesday to permit Prosecutor G. W. Marriott to go to Canton Tuesday where he will represent the county auditor and treasurer in a mandamus hearing before the appeals court.

Marriott was one of the attorneys in a damage case scheduled for trial today before the petit jury and it was expected that the case would continue over until Tuesday, conflicting with the appeals court session.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe and Treasurer John E. Kolb, defendants in the mandamus suit, will go to Canton with the prosecutor Tuesday.

The hearing before the appeals court will involve the estate of the late Frank B. Black on which Michael Hallabrin, Mansfield, plaintiff in the action, contends there is personal tax due for the period from 1926 to 1932.

Filing the action as a taxpayer, Hallabrin asks the appeals court to require the auditor and treasurer to assess and collect the tax.

ORDER OUSTER

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—A removal order charging Cecil Rhoads, an employe of the Bucyrus office of the bureau of unemployment compensation, with use of intoxicants to an extent that it interfered with his work was filed with the state civil service commission today. The removal is effective Oct. 12. Rhoads, a grade two clerk, had been under a 15-day suspension.

2 'RUSH JOBS' AT ELECTION BOARD

Last Day to Register, Checking of Civil Service Petitions Keeps Workers on Jump.

The Richland county board of elections had its hands full with two "rush jobs" today.

It was the last day for registering in the city for the November election and dozens of Mansfielders crowded the office. The deadline for registrations and transfers is 8:30 p. m. today.

The election board also had to check signatures on the Civil Service act referendum petitions and have the 64 petitions ready to go back to the secretary of state by tonight.

Although the state Democratic headquarters suggested that the county Democratic chairman name a representative to sit with the election board while the petitions were being checked, no representative was chosen here.

The Democratic headquarters' suggestion was in line with a warning issued by State Chairman Arthur L. Limbach who said: "If we are not watchful, hundreds and perhaps thousands of valid signatures may be invalidated in the desperate effort to stop this referendum."

The 64 referendum petitions circulated in the county had 2,025 signatures, and George Balliet, president of the board, said less than 10 per cent of the signatures would be ruled out on the basis of an early check.

ART INSTITUTE ARRANGES SHOW

Mansfielders Invited to Submit Paintings For Annual Event.

Artists of Mansfield and vicinity today were invited to take part in the fifth annual New Year show at the Butler Art Institute, Youngstown, in which $500 in prizes will be awarded.

The New Year show, for artists of Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, opens Jan. 1 and continues through Jan. 28. Paintings must be submitted by Sunday, Dec. 10.

The selection committee is made up of nationally known artists. Those interested in entering the show, which attracted more than 800 paintings last year, can obtain entry blanks by addressing the Butler Art Institute, Youngstown.

SENTENCED IN WIFE SWAPPING

Principals In "Trade" of Mates, Division of 14 Children, In Court.

LAPEER, Mich.—(AP)—Clarence June, 39, and Mrs. Mildred Davis, 26, two of the principals in Lapeer county's much publicized "wife swapping" case, were sentenced by Circuit Judge Louis S. Cramton today to serve six months in jail.

June's wife, Edith, 39, was placed on probation and Mrs. Davis' husband, George, 37 was fined $150 and ordered to pay $100 costs.

The four were convicted recently of lewd and lascivious cohabitation. It was charged that they traded mates and divided their 14 children.

SEARCH DEBRIS

Rescuers Find 20 Killed In Train Wreck In Berlin.

BERLIN—(U.P.)—The blaze of torches used in rescue work at a north Berlin railroad wreck last night represented the first suspension of the city's nightly blackouts since the war began.

More than 20 persons were killed and many injured in the wreck at the Gesundbrunnen station. The Berlin-Sassnitz express plowed into the rear cars of a crowded passenger train traveling in the same direction.

TAFT OUTLINES STAND IN LETTER TO SCORES HERE

Mansfielders Told He Favors Repeal of Arms Embargo and Strict Cash-and-Carry.

Scores of Mansfielders had received form letters today from U. S. Senator Robert A Taft, outlining his stand in favor of repeal of the arms embargo and adoption of a cash-and-carry plan.

The letters were sent to persons who had written to Taft on the neutrality question or signed petitions which were mailed to senators and representatives before the opening of the special session of congress.

"I have received so many thousands of letters on all sides of the Neutrality act question that it is physically impossible to write personal letters in reply. I have therefore prepared this statement of my views and ask you to consider it in answer to your recent communication," Taft's letter said.

Opposes Credit.

"I believe that a strict cash-and-carry policy for shipment of all goods to warring nations is the most likely to keep us out of war," Taft said. "The Neutrality act should be amended to keep American ships out of the war zone, no matter what they carry, it should also be amended so that credit can not be advanced to citizens or corporations of belligerent countries. Otherwise a large group of Americans will acquire a financial interest in the success of those countries to whose citizens they have loaned money."

The senator's letter added: "The most neutral position we can take, in my opinion, is to say to all nations: 'We will sell you whatever we have, if you pay cash and take away your purchases in your own ships' . . . I see no difference in principle between selling implements of war and selling the materials out of which they are made."

Taft said further: "I am opposed to giving the president any discretion which will enable him to favor one warring nation over another, and thereby abandon neutrality."

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1939.

Nearly all the shooting in this country is done with cameras.

So far, Russia is the only real victor in this European war, and she didn't have to fight for it.

Territorial Waters

THE huge safety zone proposed by the 21 American republics around their continent arouses inquiries about the legal extent of territorial waters. The three-mile limit was first proclaimed officially by Thomas Jefferson in 1793 when he was secretary of state. In notes addressed to the British and French ministers he said:

"The greatest distance to which any responsible assent among nations has been given at any time has been the extent of human sight, estimated at upward of twenty miles, and the smallest distance, I believe, claimed by any nation whatever, is the utmost range of a cannon ball, usually stated at one sea league" (three marine miles).

That was the limit adopted and, according to various authorities on international law, no nation, by its own action, can change this limit. It can be changed only by negotiations with other maritime nations.

Six years after Jefferson's decision, the United States congress seems to have set the limit at twelve miles "for the exercise of certain customs controls." The three-mile limit, however, remained the standard, and nations have exercised only very limited jurisdiction beyond that.

Cannon range has lengthened since Jefferson's day. So has the speed of approach by boat and airplane.

It is possible that the territorial waters of nations may in the near future be greatly extended by law, but for the present the Pan-American plan is an experiment. It may be tested during the present war in Europe, and finally settled by international negotiations when peace has been restored.

Fees In National Parks

THE American Automobile association, which keeps track of such things, finds that while automobile travel has increased this year, attendance at national parks where entrance fees have been instituted recently has dropped sharply.

Which may bring to the attention of many Americans something they didn't know—that a large number of national parks and historic memorials have been turned into "dime shrines."

The A. A. A. cites two great eastern parks, Shenandoah and the Great Smokies. Last year, it says, when both were free, they led the patronage list. This year, Great Smoky park, still free, showed a gain of 12 per cent over 1938, while Shenandoah, where fees were imposed for the first time this year showed a decrease of 10 per cent.

A. A. A. figures show the same thing in a number of other instances—the number of visitors has dropped at Washington's birthplace, the Lee mansion in Arlington cemetery, the house where Lincoln died, the Lincoln museum. At all of those places, fees of one sort or another are charged.

Mr. Average American, who reveres Washington, Lincoln and Lee, and likes his form of government, just balks at the idea of being charged to follow, for a moment, in their footsteps.

We can't say that we blame him much—he gets nicked for enough "fees" in everyday life.

A Tax Yardstick

OUT in Ft. Wayne, Ind., they've got a mayor who knows his tax bookkeeping, and knows how to talk taxes in the language of the fellow who pays them.

He can make the services that taxes buy so tangible that no one can get mixed up—and when there's a question of a tax increase, the taxpayer knows what he's going to get, and what it's going to cost in terms that make his decision easy for him.

Here's what the Hoosier mayor says:

"In Ft. Wayne we show the individual who has a home assessed at $4,000 will pay 42 cents a month for police protection, or the price of a meal; for fire protection 48 cents, less than the price of a haircut—in Ft. Wayne; garbage collections 8 cents, less than a Sunday paper; street cleaning 13 cents, less than a gallon of gas; street repair, 6 cents, the price of a pound loaf of bread: for parks and recreation 32 cents, the price of a pound of steak; health department 5 cents, the price of a soft drink; payment on debt 15 cents, the price of a pack of cigarets; other city activities, including pensions and schools, 27 cents, less than a movie ticket."

The total is $1.96 a month for all the civil services in Mayor Baals' city. How many other municipalities can use such yardsticks so favorably?

Farm Perils

PEOPLE who think of farm life as an idyl of peace and safety are dreaming. It isn't so peaceful any more, and it certainly isn't safe. A writer in the American Medical Journal insists that farming is "an exceedingly dangerous occupation, the hazards of which are not universally appreciated."

And the barn, center of so many nostalgic dreams to boys who have gone to the city and made good, is the center of the danger zone. Half of all the accidents on the farm occur in the barn or the barnyard.

"It certainly was not so in the old days," the old-timers may say. And they will be partly right. Farming always was dangerous, but is much more so now. Mechanization has wrought the change. To the usual mishaps from animals, tools, weather, and so on, are now added vehicles and machinery which, while saving labor, make greater hazards.

Ears For Mars

INSTEAD of the "listening posts" of the last war, there are now "sound detectors." These are among the most wonderful mechanisms yet invented for military purposes.

The main idea is a powerful microphone set in the center of a big bowl open to the sky. This bowl is raised from the ground, on a base fixed solidly in the earth. There is a mechanic to keep the complex apparatus functioning. On opposite sides there are two experts listening with ear-phones, sitting in seats suspended from the edge of the bowl. They are listening for hostile air craft, to give warning of attacks. It is operated with storage batteries.

Mars, the War God, in whatever heaven or hell he occupies, never had anything like this.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The religious life of New York city as a community springs from nearly seven hundred churches, synagogues, convents, and monasteries, the earliest of which was Dutch, and the newest of which encompasses all nations. There are churches here of international fame and of unsurpassed richness and splendor, and there are others little known save by their congregations and the people who live in adjoining houses.

When the Dutch first arrived in Manhattan their first move was to establish a place of worship, and since that time no decade has passed without the building of more and larger temples of worship. One can not begin to tell the history of church life in a brief letter, but these few widely-separated facts may prove interesting:

When New York was the nation's capital, George Washington attended services at St. Paul's on Broadway, between Fulton and Vesey streets. A special pew reserved for the Washington family was large and square, and on it was the coat of arms of the United States. It is still used as it was then, and anyone may sit in it today. St. Paul's originally was built on the site of a wheat field on the Queen's farm. Many American and British officers attended services there during their various occupations of the city during the Revolution, and many British officers are buried in the grounds.

MOST widely publicized of all churches is the Actors' church, also Episcopal, which is known as the Little Church Around the Corner. It is daily the scene of 40 or 50 weddings. St. Thomas' church is one of America's most fashionable places of worship, and at Easter the crowds are so large that the police force is taxed to control onlookers.

Temple Emanu-El, at Fifth avenue and Sixty-fifth street, is one of New York's most striking and beautiful synagogues. Early Romanesque in design, it is an outstanding example of Hebrew symbolism. Its congregation is wealthy and influential, and numbered in its history are such important names as Guggenheim and Strauss. The Methodists in New York first met in an old loft at 120 William street, then known as the Street of the Cart and the Horse. By subscription they raised enough money to erect the first Methodist church, known as the Old John street church. This was in 1768, and today it is the oldest Methodist church in the world. Aubrey Park in New York is named for Bishop Aubrey, of the Methodist church, who, in 1791, delivered his famous memorial sermon for John Wesley.

A GREAT and magnificent church in New York is the Russian Orthodox Church of Christ the Savior, built in the '20's by refugees who fled Red Russia. The services are said to be of extraordinary beauty. The head of the church is the Very Rev. Vasily Kurdiumoff, who is "tall, has a long black beard and walks with a white dog."

No mention of churches in Manhattan would be complete without a word on L'Eglise de Saint Esprit, the old French Huguenot church, at 229 East 61st street. It springs from the historical Edict of Nantes, which induced many French Protestants to flee to America. Their first place of worship was a small building in Pine street that was completely surrounded by a graveyard.

Quakers, Catholic, Baptist, Presbyterian—they are all here, and they are everywhere. Not without cause is New York known as "the city of churches."

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, Oct. 9, 1919.

Most of the furniture for the recently purchased governor's mansion at Columbus was being made at the Ohio State reformatory.

"No Parking" signs were beginning to make their appearance in front of down town business places.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kelly, Venum avenue, returned from a two-weeks wedding trip through New York and Pennsylvania.

E. H. Morris, manager of the Electropure Milk company, resigned to accept a position in Columbus.

Miss Helen Zediker, Hedges street, was pleasantly surprised on her birthday by a number of friends.

George Jones, 184 North Mulberry street, underwent an appendectomy at General hospital.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, Oct. 9, 1934.

King Alexander of Jugoslavia and French Foreign Minister Louis Barthou were assassinated in Marseilles.

W. A. Menchan, 52, sales manager for the Central Fruit and Grocery company, died at his home, 380 West Fifth street.

Glenn Robinson was installed as president of men's brotherhood of First English Lutheran church.

Mansfield Sorosis club met, starting its 45th year.

Dr. W. H. Wolford was elected president of Kiwanis club, succeeding Harry C. Finefrock.

TODAY IN HISTORY

October 9—Chicago's great fire started on this date in 1871 and lasted three days, destroying 18,000 buildings, with an established loss of $196,000,000.

Rumania Key to Nazi-Red Rivalry

—By MORGAN M. BEATTY

WASHINGTON — What Hitler and Stalin do about Rumania will tinkle out, for diplomatic ears, the news as to who gets the best of the bargain in eastern Europe.

Already many kibitzers on the diplomatic front have a feeling that Stalin is the winning checker player. Some of them even go so far as to suggest that Stalin has done to Hitler the same thing that Hitler did to Mussolini a couple of years ago—got him into the game, then grabbed most of the checkers in sight.

With a sly wink, your diplomat points to maps and dispatches to show you what he's tallking about. He cites:

(1) The new military protectorates of Russia on the Baltic—Estonia and Latvia, possibly Lithuania and Finland.

(2) The new partitioning of Poland, giving Russia control of the former Polish-Rumanian border, and shutting the Germans out of Rumania's wheat and oil lands, EXCEPT with Stalin's permission.

(3) Mysterious talk about a hurried trip by Rumania's foreign minister, Gregore Gafencu, to Moscow to see what Stalin wants with him, NOT to Berlin to see what Hitler wants.

A Split Rumania?

If the diplomatic grapevine is as near right as it usually is, Gafencu may hear that Stalin wants Bessarabia back. He might even learn that Germany and Russia are establishing zones of influence that split Rumania in two, and give King Carol about as much freedom of action as a man in a strait-jacket. If this should occur, the province of Transylvania would fall within the German orbit, and Moldavia, Wallachia and possibly Dobrudja within the Russian.

Russia would then be in a position to set up a military highway across Rumania up the valley of the Danbue, following the time-honored route of conquest between Europe and Asia to the Iron Gate of Roman fame.

At the Iron Gate, Russia would be in a position to deal with any European influence she wished by military threat alone. That goes for Hitler as well as anybody else.

Dardanelles.

If the diplomatic grapevine has the picture in focus, then it explains why Russia is so concerned about Turkey, for Turkey holds the Dardanelles, a back door route that could cut the Russian zone of Balkan influence in two, if it should fall into the hands of an enemy.

Clearer also become the tactics of Hitler in offering peace. For Hitler may well want to put all his talents, military and otherwise, into the show in eastern Europe. Russia may be a bit too close for comfort, even on a peaceful basis of alliance.

If he is thinking that way, then lightning peace—or lightning war, like the war in Poland—would be his best bet on the West.

Wayward Sons and Daughters — Who's To Blame For Them.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

HAVE the youngsters of today more temptations than those of 1910? Did modern young America copyright "the Sex Problem" or was it doing a brisk business at the same old stand when Pop and Mom were kids?

And who's to blame if Junior or Sis go wrong today . . . the youngsters themselves . . . or the parents who failed to train them?

It's Elaine Hitchcock, a young mother of Sierra Madre, Calif., asking and giving plenty of brisk answers as well. It's frank talking on a subject which needs frankness. And many of the Bright Young People who like to dish it out will find it hard to take. But, though I don't agree with all of it, I'm thinking it's the medicine they're needing.

"I'm fed up," says Elaine, "with all this sex problem talk. What makes you young people think you're so all-fired different in that respect from us of the last generation? Because of more opportunity—liquor, cars, movies? We younger parents of today had all of these and knew all the temptations that went with them. Our cars may not have had as much speed, but we did and we could find plenty of parking places.

"But we ourselves were different. We knew when to stop and when to make the boys stop. If he didn't stop—he just didn't come again. And it wasn't because we were afraid of babies or disease—it was because we were decent and wanted to stay decent.

"There have always been good youngsters and bad ones, and it has always been up to the good ones to draw the line between the brands. All that is needed is a little will power.

"All this talk about 'getting experience' makes me sick. None of us felt that we had to experiment with sex relationships which should come later in order to get experience—any more then we felt that we needed to have all our teeth pulled out to see how old folks felt. We had enough thrills to satisfy us as far as sex was concerned by just kissing. We knew there were plenty more emotions to be had—we weren't as dumb as modern literature makes us out to be. We knew the results of 'being cheap' by watching the girls who had been. That was all the experience we wanted.

"Listen to me, young America! Stop putting all the blame on us parents. We do our best to make you decent people. If we have made mistakes—as many of us have—it is because we have given you too much freedom. Yet you yourselves yell for that freedom. You boast of your ability to take care of yourselves.

You scream from the housetops that you're not babies—that you're capable of making your own decisions. Then when we give you your freedom, what happens? You marry the first tramp that comes along. Or you marry some fine fellow or girl who is too 'dull' for you and you rush headlong into [illegible].

You come back to homes which have been already depleted by your extravagance and you dump your bills in our laps . . . or your diseases . . . or your illegitimate children . . . or your broken lives. And then you cry—

* * *

"Why weren't we told these things? Why weren't we warned? Why weren't we given the proper help?"

"You were warned. You were helped. You knew all the answers. But you just didn't want to exercise self-control. You had to have your cake and eat it too. And now you complain? Where is your much boasted sportsmanship?

"Elaine Hitchcock
"142 East Sierra Madre Blvd.,
"Sierra Madre, California.

A grand letter, and I'm the first to applaud it, my dear! Nevertheless, I think you've overlooked some factors in modern life which make it mighty hard sledding for many a youngster. This depression has bred a spirit of recklessness that previous generations did not know, even your own. It has caused loneliness, too: homelessness, an aimless drifting that is worse than anything in our American experience. These aren't theories; they're tragic facts. It's never easy for warm-blooded youth to be good. But it's a lot easier with a home behind one, loving arms and trusting hearts as against the heart-searing dreariness of a hall bedroom on a strange street. You've known the bright side, Elaine — you and all your kind. Be tolerant to those who haven't!

'Who Loves the Rain'

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE day it rained I met a farmer with his team, along our gravel road. The long lines he held were dripping. Water ran off the horses' round backs, down along their flanks, then met beneath and poured off in steady streams. Even the manes and bushy tails were shedding water rapidly. Their large, shod feet splashed through the growing puddles in the wheel tracks.

The farmer's shoes were heavy with the clay he had carried from the field, and the edges of his overalls about his heels were folds of sticky mud. Water ran in little torrents from the front and back of his slouched old felt hat, and his patched and faded jumper was soaked completely. His tanned and wrinkled face was masked with vapory dampness.

I drew off to one side, stopped my car, and waited for him to pass. Instead he greeted me most kindly, halted his team, and said, "My, I love this rain! It's what we oughta had four weeks ago. Yesterday that field there was so dry I could hardly see to guide the horses through the dust. 'Twas pitiable how the grass and even the weeds dried up. But last night a warm south wind blew hard, and then the clouds rolled up from the south and west and I smelt moisture in the air.

"I know I was kinda foolish to start out this mornin' when it was sprinkling, and my wife shamed me before I left the barn, but, neighbor, when the rain comes down so sweet and good, like this, I kinda enjoy bein' out in it. When I get wet clean through, like now"—and I heard the water slosh in his shoes as he changed position—"more rain feels good. Then I like to hear it soak down through the thirsty soil—seems like there's rejoicin' among the roots of things."

I looked across the lowland pasture and up along the slopes of the cultivated fields and saw the misty vapor rise and spread a thin white cloud across the little valley.

"Them that's had to haul water will get their wells and cisterns full," he went on, "for the wind is changin' to the east, and I believe it's goin' to keep on rainin'. I love to see them crick beds get alive and the sheep and cattle comin' there to drink. Them burned up pastures have been a sorry sight. Now they'll get green again.

"When I get home" and he smiled a broad, moist grin, "my wife will make we take off all these soaked duds and put clean dry ones on. She'll shame me—but it'll be worth it."

"Who loves the rain and loves his home and looks on life with quiet eyes," I quoted to myself as I drove on.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The senate does not know it yet, but President Roosevelt has just violated a treaty with Great Britain which received the hard and fast ratification of the senate. Probably the entire senate would approve, however. The violation is an interesting illustration of the necessity of executive discretion in wartime.

The treaty is the barter agreement between the United States and Great Britain whereby American cotton is traded for British rubber. The treaty, as ratified by the senate, provides for a 50-50 division of shipping. American vessels carrying one-half of the cotton to England and one-half of the rubber from Singapore. British vessels also carry half the cotton and half the rubber.

But when war broke, Ambassador Kennedy worked out a plan with the British whereby they would carry all of the cotton from the United States to England, while American vessels would carry all of the rubber from Singapore to the United States.

The British proposed this with the idea of helping American vessels to avoid the risky waters of Europe, where British ships have naval convoys but American ships do not. The waters of the Pacific between Singapore and the United States, on the other hand, are relatively safe.

Nevertheless the British proposal struck a snag in the state department's legal division, which pointed out that this division of shipping was in direct violation of the treaty. The law was the law, decreed the legalists, and American ships would have to take the risk of carrying cotton to Great Britain.

Secretary Hull, however, decided to take the question across the street to the White House. There the president made an immediate decision. He threw the legal technicalities of the treaty out the window and ruled that American ships would keep clear of the war zone. Instead of carrying cotton to England they will carry all of the British rubber from Singapore.

Word of this decision was immediately cabled to London and the British proposal was accepted.

Hoover's Crusade.

Bob Gros, energetic head of the Young Democrats at Leland Stanford university, of which Herbert Hoover is a trustee, was traveling from Los Angeles to San Francisco and met Hoover in the club car.

They are neighbors in Palo Alto and engaged in a friendly conversation, during the course of which Gros said to the ex-President:

"Mr. Hoover, why don't you come down on the campus and mingle with the students? They'd like to see more of you. It would be a great thing if you could give a series of lectures at the university."

Mr. Hoover fixed Gros with a glowering eye. "Young man," he said, "I'm conducting a crusade against the New Deal and the classroom is no forum for that."

Phony Spies.

Super-sleuth J. Edgar Hoover is receiving a daily average of about 215 reports from people who have seen foreign spies just around the corner. When investigated most of them turn out to be phonies.

While Hoover appreciates the co-operation of the public, he also is warning the San Francisco conference of Police Chiefs that it doesn't pay to see a spy under every bed, and that civil rights can be trampled on very easily in periods such as this. He doesn't believe in spy-hunts by vigilantes.

No Boob McNutt.

Frank McHale, hefty would-be Jim Farley of the McNutt-for-president campaign, had his wings clipped the other day—by McNutt.

Back from a tour of the west, where he said he found much enthusiastic McNutt sentiment, McHale announced he would embark shortly on a similar promotional junket in a half-dozen southwestern states. The plan was shortlived.

A few hours later McNutt arrived in town and had a little talk with McHale. What occurred between them is not known, but the next day McHale backtracked with this statement: "The tour will be postponed indefinitely, or at least until neutrality legislation is passed by congress."

Czar Carmody.

There have been many New Deal blasts against big business brutality in letting out employes, but seldom in private industry has there been anything to equal the manner in which John M. Carmody, federal works administrator, is firing his staff.

Cardomy is going about the job with almost-visible delight, and actually has promised a trip to Hawaii to the executive who will get rid of the largest number of workers.

He has also put himself in the hands of a little clique of Harding-Hoover holdovers now running his Public Works administration, who derive particular glee from ousting friends of Ickes and Roosevelt, no matter what their seniority or efficiency records.

No civil service exists in PWA, and this little clique has rigged the efficiency records to suit themselves. Their chief criterion of efficiency is personal pleasure and past grudges.

While a certain number of PWA workers must be dropped with the closing down of the PWA program, Ickes, when administrator, went at the problem systematically and fired single men first. Married men, especially those with children, were retained as long as possible. With Carmody, however, dependents make no difference.

The situation got so bad that Harry Slattery, former Under-Secretary of Interior and now Rural Electrification administrator succeeding Carmody, telephoned to G. H. Butler, in charge of PWA investigations. He called his attention to an investigator who had several children and a wife in the hospital dying of cancer.

"This man," said Slattery, "has worked almost every night that he has been in PWA. I happen to know he has discovered certain things that have saved the government several hundred thousand dollars—far more than your total salary. It isn't fair to fire a man like that."

Butler once served under Slattery. But now Butler replied: "You're not in the saddle any more," and clicked down the receiver.

Nazis Confident European Peace Near.

BERLIN—(AP)—Germany waited confidently today for the peace many of her millions believed just around the corner.

Nazis cited two reasons for their optimism that the end of Polish resistance in the east forecast an end to Europeon hostilities.

First, they said, Adolf Hitler's hand was open to anyone who would clasp it in peace.

Second, they looked toward President Roosevelt for mediation.

Nazi reports have emphasized that proponents and opponents of revision of the United States neutrality act have expressed favor of Mr. Roosevelt in the role of peacemaker for Europe.

(Mr. Roosevelt, however, has let it be known he has nothing to say for the present.)

Nazi officials have stressed Hitler's readiness to accept a peace initiative from the U. S. president, and the press has been filled with accounts of "the deep and favorable impression" left throughout the world by the fuehrer's address to the reichstag Friday.

With no official answer yet from Great Britain or France, however, and army commniques still reporting only minor activity on the western front, German officialdom enjoyed its first week-end of leisure in five weeks

37 YEARS OLD

Eastern Star Lodge to Mark Event Tuesday.

SHELBY — Observing the 37th anniversary of the founding of their lodge, members of Rizpah Chapter No. 153, Order of Eastern Star, will hold a "share-the-cost" dinner Tuesday night at the Masonic temple. Mrs. B. V. Hollenbaugh and Mrs. William Kuhn are in charge of reservations.

Rizpah chapter was instituted on July 29, 1902, with a charter of 27 members. Ruth Chapter No. 17 of Mansfield exemplified the ritual wark.

The chapter completed its organization on Aug. 1 of the same year and received its charter on Oct. 9. Charter members of the lodge expected to take part in the program this week are Dr. Frances Sutter and Miss Kittie Sonnanstine. Dr. Sutter served as worthy matron of the lodge during 1905-06, while Miss Sonnanstine served as the head of the chapter in 1914.

TOLEDO — (AP) — Finding an overturned boat three and a half miles out in Lake Erie, and discovery of a life preserver two miles from the boat, led searchers today to fear three Toledoans, missing since yesterday morning, may have figured in a fishing tragedy.

Louis Millstein, 36; Phillip Leibovitz, 19; and Manny Brassloff, 22, left yesterday morning on a fishing trip. They were reported missing last night and a search of the lake began.

Today, searchers found the boat overturned in the lake. The preserver was discovered a short time later.

Fishermen said the lake was rough yesterday and a heavy fog settled on the lake last night.

LEADER-IN-EXILE OF POLAND WAS BORN IN EXILE IN RUSSIA

WLADYSLAW RACZKIEWICZ

It is appropriate that Wladyslaw Raczkeiwicz (pronounced Ratch-KYE-veech) should head the new Polish government-in-exile formed recently in Paris. He was born an exile in 1885, in Kutais, Russia, where his nobleman father was sent by the czar for political activity.

Educated in the law at the University of Dorpat, Raczkiewicz practiced two years in Minsk, then entered the Russian army as a reserve officer in 1914. With the outbreak of the Russian revolution in 1917, he threw himself into political-military activity, at first organizing secret Polish military forces on Russian soil, later building up military resistance to the Bolsheviks in Eastern Poland.

From 1920 on, Raczkiewicz held numerous public positions, including several terms as the Polish minister of interior, president of the Warsaw senate and governor of important Polish provinces. In 1937, when Poland was rife with anti-semitic riots, Raczkiewicz warned he would send to concentration camps all leaders of the movement.

He is the Polish equivalent of an English aristocrat. He is married, but has no children.

our defense of the liberties of Europe may make it exceedingly difficult to win sympathy and help of the United States today or tomorrow."

Meanwhile, the nation's armed forces heard King George assert that though "your task may be long and arduous, I have every confidence in your ultimate success."

The king, an admiralty announcement said, had paid a two-day visit to the home fleet and inspected a naval airdrome, where he decorated fliers reported to have "recently achieved a certain northern sea triumph." The nature of the "triumph" was not specified.

There was little actual news from the war front. An air ministry communique last night reported British planes had shot down one of two German flying boats in a battle over the North Sea. The British flyers summoned a ship which rescued the Nazi airmen, the communique said.

The war on the seas came close to Britain over the week-end as the 6,873 ton Holland-Amerika freighter, Binnendijk, enroute from New York to Amsterdam, sank in flames off Weymouth after an explosion. A British war ship rescued the crew of 41.

Movement of British troops from England toward the front in France continue unabated.

DIES AT AGE 93

Mrs. Barnett Was One of City's Oldest Residents.

Mrs. Margaret Jane Barnett, 93, one of the city's oldest residents, died at her home, 27 Penn avenue, at 1 p. m. today following a lingering illness.

Mrs. Barnett was born in Wayne county, April 17, 1846, and had resided in this city 60 years. She was the oldest member of the United Presbyterian church at the time of her death.

The survivors include three grandchildren, Robert O. McFarland; Miss Martha McFarland and Miss Josephine McFarland of Mansfield, and two great-grandchildren.

Services will be held at the Finefrock funeral home at 3 p. m. Wednesday with Rev. H. H. Ford of the United Presbyterian church, assisted by Mrs. Barnett's nephew, Rev. Walter L. Ewing, of Pittsburgh, officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Former and Present Members of First M. E. Group Gather.

Sixty former and present members of the Tither Sunday school class of the First Methodist church attended the annual reunion of the group at the church yesterday.

A dinner at noon followed the regular Sunday school and church services, attended by the class. A program consisting of vocal numbers by Ralph Wadsworth and short talks by various class members followed the dinner. The reunion next year will be held the last Sunday in September. Officers are Mrs. Naomi Heidinger, president, and Mrs. W. O. Craig, secretary.

Those who attended from out of the city were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Herre and daughter Ruth of Niles; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Wolf and daughter of Nankin; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Newcomer of Willard, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rhodes of Bellville.

PLANS TO RAISE YACHT

YONKERS, N. Y.—(AP)—Anthony Fokker, wealthy airplane designer, said today he would raise his $250,000 streamlined yacht from the bottom of the Hudson river and rebuild it. The pleasure craft burned and sank off Yonkers Saturday night.

1 KILLED, SISTER HURT

TIFFIN—(AP)—An automobile collision today at a crossroads killed Mrs. George McFerren, 60, Tiffin, and sent her sister, Mrs. Irene Smith, 56, of Cleveland, to a hospital with three fractured ribs and other injuries.

DRIVER JAILED

SHELBY—Charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated, Walter Clabaugh, R. D. 2, Shelby, was being held at city jail today awaiting appearance before Mayor D. B. Young's court.

Clabaugh was arrested by Patrolman Walter Benedict on North Broadway avenue. The officer said Clabaugh had driven his car into the ditch near the New York Central railroad crossing on the street Saturday night.

300 HELP OPEN WEEK AT CHURCH

Homecoming Services Begin at United Brethren; Nightly Events Scheduled.

SHELBY—More than 300 members and guests were present at the opening service Sunday morning of the annual homecoming week services at United Brethren church. Special services are planned for 7:30 p. m. every night except Saturday.

Rev. John C. Searle, pastor of the church, spoke on the theme, "Yesterday, Today and Forever," at the morning service. The evening service featured special music by the church choir directed by Miss Jennie Kirkpatrick. The anthem was "Wonderful Grace of God."

At 7:30 p. m. today a special organ recital will be given by Mrs. F. J. Kinnaman of Fostoria as part of the series of the services. Selections will include "Grand Choeur", "Festive Prelude", "To a Wild Rose", "Deep River", "Children's Prayer", "The Rosary", "Liebestraum", "The Old Refrain", "Lyric Theme", "The Lost Chord", "Angelus", "Evensong", and "Tocatto". The soloist will be Mrs. Jay Hill of this city.

Other speakers during the week will be: Tuesday, Rev. A. E Davis of Columbus Grove, a former Shelby pastor; Wednesday, Dr. J. R. Howe, president of Otterbein college; Thursday, Rev. J. O. Rhoades of Willard, a former Shelby pastor; Friday, Dr. F. H. Allman of Bluffton, superintendent of the Sandusky branch of the church; and Sunday, Dr. J. B. Showers of Dayton, publishing agent for the United Brethren church.

Ashland 'Blind' Man Gets Pension and Drives a Car

ASHLAND — The "blind" man who is receiving a pension for being blind is entitled to that pension, and if he has a license to drive an automobile, it is a matter for the state highway patrol and not for the blind pension department, according to Mrs. Edna Duncan, in charge of blind pensions for Ashland county.

The question came up when it was found here that an Ashland county man receiving a blind pension drives his own car and has a license to do so.

It has been stated here that the man drives to town about once a month to buy groceries and clothes for his family, and that he also drives about the rural areas to purchase junk.

Mrs. Duncan stated in answer that as far as examination goes, the man has a vision of only 20-1000 of normal and that therefore he is entitled to a blind pension.

CHECK 'BOUNCES'

Store Manager Asks Police to Hunt Bogus Check Passer.

Police today were asked to search for a bogus check passer after L. J. Washburn, manager at the Sears, Roebuck and company store, reported that a check cashed for the man had been returned from the bank marked "no account".

Washburn told officers that a $12 check drawn on the Farmers Citizens Bank and Savings company, Bucyrus, had been cashed on Sept. 29, by store employes. The check was made payable to Harold Addison and bore the signature of George E. Randolph, he said.

COLLEGE PREXIES CONVENE

GRANVILLE—(INS)—The second annual conference of Ohio college presidents will be held in Granville, Thursday and Friday, it was announced today. Judge Carl Weygandt, chief justice of the state supreme court, is expected to be the speaker at a banquet Thursday.

the drink. We carried luggage or babies . . . to the buses waiting to take them to outlying villages.

"I can't compute the number of hot, heavy, dirty, and leaking babies I carried to the top of double-decker buses in the wake of their exhausted mothers."

Another place in the letter Miss Davey says, "It broke my heart to see the school kids come—all ages from five to fourteen, with knapsacks, kitbags, and gas masks, and their names and addresses on labels tied to them. It was piteous and pathetic. They were so hot and tired."

"We never," she continued, "go out anywhere without gas masks, and everyone is obliged to 'black-out' their houses by 7 p. m. so that not a chink of light shows from the outside.

"I have an evacuated teacher billetted on me," she says, "and a cat (who otherwise would have been put to sleep) and have my hands full."

The letter is dated Sept. 20, and expresses concern over Poland ". . . the terrible happenings in Poland fill us with horror . . . Even though it will mean great danger and suffering I feel I shall be glad when we can get to grips with the enemy -- waiting and fearing is a beastly business."

RALLY DAY SETS METHODIST MARK

SHELBY — A record congregation of 330 members participated in the Rally day services Sunday at First Methodist church by attending the classes of the Sunday school department. Last year less than 300 members attended the classes on Rally day.

The sermon by Dr. Arthur Staples, was on the subject, "The Rally Call." The 30-voice choir directed by Howard Wildman sang the anthem, "Ho Every One That Thirsteth." Mr. and Mrs. Wildman played a trumpet duet for the Sunday school assembly program.

DINNER PARTY SET FOR MID-OCTOBER

Review of Reviews Club Announces Schedule for Monthly Meetings: Miscellaneous Subjects Selected.

COMING EVENTS for the Review of Reviews club were formally announced this morning when the pale blue-covered booklet of the club arrived heralding a covered-dish dinner for Oct. 13. "Women In the White House" will be the discussion subject which Mrs. Frank H. McDowell will lead, and Mrs. Joe Yeagle of Ashland will be the hostess.

Meeting once monthly, the club members will assemble in November at the home of Mrs. V. P. Moffett to hear Mrs. Gladys Lane give a book review, and in December Mrs. Moffett will give a Christmas story at the home of Mrs. H. W. Fox. Members will bring Christmas basket contributions to this meeting.

The first meeting of the new year will include a program by Miss Everett Tingley, who is to speak on "Ohio's Famous Personages," with Miss Leotta Hunter receiving the guests. "Obscure Wives"by Mrs. Fox is the February subject, and Mrs. Robert B. Barker will gave "Glimpses of Our Present Day Poets" on March 9.

Spring will be welcomed with a guest party given by the club members with Mrs. Warren Fort and Mrs. Walter Shaffer as hostesses on April 13. Miss Hester Robinson will give a review of an opera supplemented with piano selections for the May 11 meeting, and the concluding meeting will be a picnic June 8 with Mrs. R. C. Rehder as hostess.

Officers this season are Miss Hunter, president; Mrs. Fox, vice-president; Mrs. Rehder, secretary, and Miss Hester Robinson, treasurer. The program was planned by Mrs. Fox. Mrs. Lane and Mrs. B. W. Knapp.

Fall Conference Of Federation To Be at Fremont

It was announced today that the fall conference of the Middle-North district of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs will be held in Fremont on Oct. 19 and 20. The Federation Club Women of Fremont, of which Mrs. L. K. Carroll is president, will be hostesses.

Registration and the opening session on Oct. 19 will be held at the Women's Club, while all other meetings, with the exception of a banquet at the Grace Lutheran church, will be at the Methodist church.

The work of the federation will be presented by state chairmen and committee women at the various sessions. Thursday morning's speakers include Mrs. Sidney Hauenstein, Mrs. Janet V. Barnes and Mrs. James C. Bryant. Mrs. C. E. Swanbeck will be in charge of the American home luncheon at noon. During the early afternoon, Dr. B. W. Lewis, professor of economics at Oberlin college; Dr. Paul B. Sears, head of the botany department at the college, and Mrs. C. L. Newcomer, state president, will be the speakers. There will be a reception and tea at the home of Mrs. Webb C. Hayes, III, later in the afternoon. Following a banquet in the evening, honored guests will be presented and Mrs. W. F. Vogel will tell of the federation's golden jubilee. The principal speaker of the evening will be J. R. Bone of the Fremont high school.

Friday's activities will include a breakfast, luncheon and routine reports. R. C. Maston, superintendent of Elyria schools; Judge John W. Baxter of the probate court of Sandusky, and Mrs. Margaret Taylor of Cleveland will be principal speakers.

Guest Speaker

When the Mansfield Business and Professional Women's club celebrate National Business and Professional Women's week with a public relations dinner Wednesday evening at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Agnes B. Dickinson, above, will be the guest speaker. Mrs. Dickinson, who will talk on the progress of women during the past century, is a well-known Columbus attorney.

Mansfielders At Wedding In Akron

Of interest in Mansfield is the marriage Saturday at 3 o'clock of Miss Bette Haberkost, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Haberkost, Akron, and Robert E. Davies, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Davies, Akron, at the Trinity Lutheran church there. Miss Haberkost was attended by her cousin, Mrs. Harry Leach of Mansfield, and Mr. Leach served as one of the ushers.

The bride's sister, Miss Pauline Haberkost, was maid of honor, and Miss Lucile Davies, sister of the bridegroom, was the other bridesmaid. Richard Schultz was best man and Donald Cornell and Wendell Shreve were the other ushers.

Both Miss Haberkost and Mr. Davies are well-known in Mansfield having visited here with the Leaches and with friends in the city many times.

Saturday Ceremony Unites Two Couples In Mansfield

THIRTY-TWO years ago in Akron Rev. W. C. B. Harris read the nuptial ceremony which united in marriage Martin Haverstock and Millie Musselman of New Pittsburgh, and Saturday at 4 o'clock in the afternoon he read the double service for the son and daughter of this couple at his home, 250 West Third street.

Miss Capitola Haverstock, New Pittsburgh, became the bride of John J. Seib of Wooster, and Miss Reletha Iceman, Jeromesville, became the bride of Stanley Haverstock, New Pittsburgh. The former Miss Haverstock, graduate of the Akron school of nursing, wore an olive brown costume with matching accessories and a shoulder corsage of orchids.

She and her husband will make their home in Wooster where Mr. Seib is employed.

The former Miss Iceman, who was graduated from the Jeromesville high school, wore navy blue with matching accessories and an orchid shoulder corsage. After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Haverstock will be at home with the bride's father at Jeromesville.

Mr. Haverstock is a native of New Pittsburgh and attended the schools there.

Informally Speaking...

Monday, Oct. 9.

Lucy, dear:

In spite of the calendar's indication that this is fall, today and the past week-end could be classed only as "the good old summertime"—it's that warm and bright outdoors. My goodness, Lucy, wouldn't it be wonderful if the weatherman were all mixed up and we could have days like this until December!

* * *

I'm sure you've heard Mrs. E. K. Bacon speak of her brother, Douglas Meldrum, and his family, who lived in England. . . . You perhaps recall that Mrs. Bacon went over for a visit at the time of the coronation of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth. . . . Well, now she's going to see her brother, his wife and family right here in New York City. . . . She is driving east today with another brother and his wife from Cleveland so as to be in New York when the boat docks tomorrow—Mr. Meldrum has been transferred back to New York after having lived in England for the past ten years.

Marianne

Tomorrow will also be an important day for J. E. Willis, his sister, Mattie F. Willis, and his son, Ned T. Willis (a former resident of our town who now lives in New York City). . . . Miss Willis is entraining for California tomorrow, and she will be joined on the west coast by Mr. Willis and his son—who are also leaving tomorrow to drive out. . . . Mr. Willis and his sister plan to visit in Los Angeles several weeks before embarking for Hawaii, where they will spend the winter in Honolulu.—Incidentally, Lucy, while most of us are still looking forward to our first trip to the romantic islands, this will be Mr. Willis' fourth and Miss Willis' second. Ned is going to stay in California all winter—also a very happy prospect, eh, Lucy?

COLLEGE CAMPUSES throughout the country are still agog with opening classes, new schedules, sorority and fraternity rushing, pledging and social activities. . . . In fact, today's mail brought news of four Mansfield girls at Ohio State university . . . Mary Sweet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kirk B. Sweet, has pledged Alpha Delta Pi sorority, and Jeanne Boals, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. David Boals, is now wearing a Kappa Alpha Theta pledge pin. . . . Shirley Shaffer and Ruth Meisel (also freshmen at the school) have just been pledged to Alpha Epsilon Phi sorority and received their pins Friday. . . . Shirley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Shaffer, and Ruth's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Max Meisel.

On your next visit to Mansfield, Lucy, I want you to be sure to see Dorothy Horchler's interesting and attractive charm necklace—it's made up of charms, which her father, Carl W. Horchler, brought back with him from a world cruise that took him to Hawaii, China, Japan, India, Italy, Egypt, France and Holland. . . . The little gold charms are a half inch high and represntative of the places where they were obtained—for example, there's the Eiffel tower from Paris and a pair of Dutch shoes from Holland. . . . As I said, Dorothy had her charms made into a necklace, while Mrs. Horchler is wearing hers on a bracelet. . . . Mr. Horchler brought his younger daughter, Jean, and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Carl E. Horchler, some of the charms too—and he also brought them all beautiful shell necklaces from Hawaii.

SPEAKING of cute new things in Mansfield, the next time you come over, Lucy, you should also see Wileen Treisch's fluffy little Chow puppy—he's just about two months old, answers to the name of Ching, and looks much more like a teddy bear than a dog.

* * *

An exciting announcement was made at a small luncheon in Cleveland Saturday when Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Newell announced the engagement of their daughter, Grace, to William Mogg of this city. . . . So Mansfield will undoubtedly be having another new resident before so very long. . . . Bill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Mogg, live in Shaker Heights, but he's employed here at the Ohio Brass company.

* * *

AND THAT winds up the news for today, Lucy. Do plan to drive over soon—while the weather's still nice and there are so many new things here for you to see.

Lovingly,

Marianne

ATTEND WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. William Switzer and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney L. Palmer attended the wedding Saturday at the First Methodist church of Akron of Miss Helen Ellis and Howard Brown. Mr. Brown, who lived in Mansfield with his parents, is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Earl R. Brown. Rev. Brown formerly was the pastor of the First Methodist church here.

CLASS MEETING.

Members of the Woholo class of the Evangelical Congregational church met recently with Miss Betty Elrod, Springmill road. Games were played and Miss Laura Hamilton was the prize winner. Mrs. Harold Elrod was a guest. The next meeting will be Nov. 6.

Nuptial Date Told Sunday At Large Tea

Miss Alice McNamara and Andrew Mott to Wed on November 4.

WHEN 45 guests at the Susie Janis home yesterday afternoon picked up their pale green napkins they found stamped in gold letters in one corner the words, "Alice and Andy, Nov. 4," and thus were acquainted with the coming marriage of Miss Alice McNamara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McNamara, 499 Davey avenue, and Andrew A. Mott, son of Elmer Mott, Shelby. The ceremony will be read at 9:30 a. m. at St. Peter's Catholic church.

Hostesses for the party were Mrs. McNamara and Miss Margaret Wilson, Cleveland, cousin of the bride-elect, who will serve as her bridesmaid.

Decorations were in green and gold, and the tea table was decorated with yellow chysanthemums and lighted tapers. Mrs. A. H. Mollenkamp and Miss Martha Jane McClane, Shelby, poured from 2 to 3 p. m., and Mrs. L. C. Baumgardner and Mrs. M. L. Siclair, Galion, poured from 3 to 4 p. m.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. J. E. Baker, Mrs. S. E. Mott, and Miss Mary Foust, Cleveland, Miss Margaret and Miss Mary Wilson, Mrs. J. J. Clinger, Mrs. Anna Carroll, and Miss Mary Ellen Carroll, all of Lakewood.

Social Club Has Guest Affair

Members of Omega Tau Gamma entertained with a guest tea from 2 until 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert P. Darling, jr., 18 West Augustine avenue. Guests for the day included Mrs. Herbert Smith, Mrs. Hugh Sturgeon, Mrs. Harvey Kibler, Mrs. Vaughn Beatty, the Misses Katherine and Betty Sheets. They were presented with corsages of pompons in fall shades.

Tea was served from a long table decorated with appointments in the club colors, blue and gold. A low floral piece centered the table, which was lighted with two candelabra. Mrs. Paul C. Woodhull and Mrs. Norval Bower presided.

The club gave the president, Mrs. Woodhull, a gift after the tea as she left then for a trip to Hyde Park, Pa.

Farm Women Schedule All-Day Event, Oct. 11

An all-day and evening meeting of the Richland County Farm Women's clubs federation will be held at the Franklin Methodist church in Weller township Wednesday, it was announced this morning. Members of the Franklin Art club will serve as hostesses, and serve both the noon and evening meal.

A varied program of miscellaneous topics will be given by the clubs. Mrs. Herbert F. White, Columbus, who has just returned from a visit to the Scandinavian countries, will speak in the afternoon on "The Strangers Within Our Gates." Her evening subject is "Life In Denmark." Mrs. White, a native of Denmark, spoke before the Mansfield Federation of Women last year, and is scheduled to give a talk here at the Central Methodist church Tuesday evening. Mrs. Lucy Downend, Shelby, president of the organization will be in charge of the all-day session.

PHILOMATHIAN CLUB ANNOUNCES PROGRAM

Papers on Many Subjects, Book Reviews, Social Functions Add Variety to Fall, Winter Plans of Organization.

A SIMPLE little ivory booklet printed in brown received in this department today announces a varied and constructive program for the Philomathian club during the current year. The opening meeting was a dinner-bridge at Westbrook Country club this week, and the real program begins on Oct. 18 with Miss Katharine Hartman, who returned from Europe only a short time ago, speaking on "Experiences Abroad" at the home of Mrs. Tom Ford.

The three November meetings will feature a talk on "Socialized Medicine" by Mrs. Thornton Moore, a paper on "What the Layman Should Know About Insurance" by Mrs. William Cutter, and a book review by Mrs. Charles Newcomb.

On Dec. 13 the club will drop the serious, and entertain with a Christmas party with Miss Katherine Rhoads and Mrs. Newcomb as hostesses.

At the turn of the year John Correll will address the members on "Labor Relations," and at the other two January sessions Miss Helen Hosler will discuss "Inside Impressions of the New York World's Fair," and Mrs. Charles Spreng will give a paper on "Criminal Lawyers."

"Etiquette: Then and Now" is the topic to be considered by Miss Margaret Black on Feb. 14, and Mrs. Ford will discuss "The Current Theater" later in the month. "Psycho-Analysis" by Miss Rhoads and "Contemporary Humorists" by Mrs. Donald Black are the March topics.

In April the club will entertain at the home of Mrs. Paul Stephens with Mrs. Fred Hout assisting with a guest meeting. The early spring sessions include a study of "First Editions" by Miss Martha King, "Games of Chance" by Mrs. Stephens, and "Presidential Political Outlook for 1940" by Mrs. George Reichert will conclude the programs.

The final meeting of the season will be a picnic on June 5 at the Spreng cabin with Mrs. Spreng, Miss Ardis Linzee, Miss Hosler and Miss Black as hostesses.

Six Parent-Teacher Groups Schedule Sessions Tomorrow

THE current week will be a busy one in Parent-Teacher circles with six of the city's associations planning to hold meetings tomorrow. Miss Genieve Diesm, school nurse, will speak on "Health In the Home" at the Newman session, and Dr. John S. Hattery will discuss the three mill levy. A program of tap dancing, and a social hour will follow.

Over at Bowman school John Kullman, superintendent of Raemelton Farms, will show natural color moving pictures of the gardens, and Raymond Dent will lead community singing. Garden club contest prizes will be awarded, and a social hour will conclude the meeting.

"A Psychologist's Program In the Schools" is the subject which Paul Sparks, school psychologist, will discuss, and Mrs. R. M. Beatty, motion picture chairman, will talk on "The City Parent Teacher Council."

Both the Mothers club and the P. T. A. of West Fifth Street school will meet in joint session to hear the Mothersingers under the direction of Mrs. H. D. Bishop, and Supt. W. L. Miller. The Pocahontas lodge will present the play "Reconstruction of the Flag."

Miss Lois MacKeller, librarian, will talk on "The Library In Education" at the Bushnell meeting, and continuing the general study theme, "Family Relationships," Mrs. Charles Ray will talk on "Goodtimes in the Family" at Carpenter school. A program of music will be given by the Mothersingers directed by Mrs. D. S. Ireland. Harry Mehock, director of athletics, will talk on the city athletic program, and County Supt. Boyd Robinson will also talk preceding the social hour.

On Oct. 17 the John Simpson P. T. A. will meet in the garage at 20 Bowman street for a program on membership.
